HARDING AWAITS RUSS STABILITY

Feeling Seems to Prevail That Longer Policy Toward Soviets Is in Making Better It Will Be—Labor Urging Renewal of Trade.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 18.—The Harding administration is two weeks old today but as yet there have been no hints forthcoming from the White House or from sources close to it as the policy to be pursued by the new administration with regard to Russia.

Conclusion of a trade agreement between Great Britain and Soviet Russia has failed to produce a ripple on official Washington, so far as outward appearances go. So far as can be learned, President Harding has not discussed the Russian question with any of his hundreds of callers and if he has taken up the question secretly with his cabinet that fact has been closely guarded.

Secretary of State Hughes has been equally uncommunicative concerning Russia. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, busy with plans for expanding American trade and widening the activities of his department, also is silent concerning Russia. It is expected that when the administration finally gets around to consideration of a Russian policy, Secretary Hoover will be the president's chief adviser because of his familiarity with European conditions and trade matters.

President Harding is understood to feel that there is no need for immediate haste in forming a Russian policy. The Russian Soviet is so unstable and the reports coming out so conflicting that the new administration feels that the longer a definite policy is deferred the more clarified the whole situation will be when the job is finally tackled.

The Bureau of Russian Affairs of the State Department is doing little except collate reports which come through devious channels from Baltic sources and scan press reports.

Considerable pressure is being brought to bear from labor sources for a resumption of trade relations with the Moscow government. Certain groups of labor have taken a leaf from the British labor movement and are urging that Russia will provide a constant outlet for American goods. Several senators hold similar views but to date their representations have been pigeon-holed for future reference.

CLARA S. HAMON SHAKES OFF PAST

Will Be Baptized Sunday and Start Life Anew—Has Pawned Diamonds and Needs Money But Is Chary of Movie Contract.

(By Clara Smith Hamon.)

Ardmore, Okla., March 18.—I have been vindicated. Twelve men have weighed the evidence and have cleared me. I am free—declared innocent of the charge of killing in cold-blood the man I loved and still love. The jury did not clear me because I was a woman. The truth was on my side and it could not do otherwise. Freedom means only one thing to me—the chance to make up for the past.

I have victory over those who conspired with all the millions and power at their command to convict me—by lies. This is all the triumph I have had.

The past bore me no triumph. I had the man I loved but the price I paid. Wrecked health, degradation, shame.

There is only one lesson to draw from my life—no one can violate the laws of God and man with impunity.

Now I rejoice because I am free to make up for the past. I have no immediate plans other than to go to California or somewhere for a long rest. I have had offers from many moving picture companies which seek to film the story of my life. I have signed no contract as yet and do not know whether I shall. I have told all who have made me offers that I would rather work as a stenographer for $25 a week than parade my past for millions unless through the medium of pictures I can carry to the world the moral lesson of my life.

If I sign a contract it will not be for an Al Jennings or a Henry Starr sort of picture. Sin will not be made attractive. I shall not appear as a heroine nor will illicit love relations be painted with romantic glamor. It will show the truth—the suffering, the degradation of it all—and in such a manner as to burn deep into the hearts of girls.

I have no money. I have pawned my diamonds to pay the expenses of my trial. There are many expenses yet to meet and I must do something to make a living.

Before I do anything I must make my peace with my God.

Next Sunday I shall go to church and by baptism cleanse my soul of sin. It will be my re-birth. I shall walk out of church into the sunshine a new Clara Smith Hamon, who is determined to live down the past and prove herself worthy of the world's respect.

My trial has brought home to me the suffering I have caused my family. For the sake of those dear ones, I shall try—(he) try so hard, to make up for everything.

I thank all those wonderful friends who have kept their faith in me. They have been so wonderful. They know that there are tears in my heart even on this day.

JEWELL REPEATS LABOR'S DEMANDS

Fundamentals On Which Rail Workers Are Willing To Meet With Executives To Adjust Whole Matter of National Agreements.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Ill., March 18.—Declaring that the attitude of labor in the controversy of employes and the railroads over the national agreements and the recently announced wage cuts has been in entire accord with President Harding's announced policy of adjusting differences before they result in conflict, J. M. Jewell, president of the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor, went before the United States Railway Labor Board today and again presented the case of the employes.

Jewell submitted to the board what he termed a concrete proposal satisfactory to labor in which he laid down "11 fundamentals which constitute labor's irreducible bill of rights."

The eleven fundamentals, Jewell enumerated as follows:

"Eight hours as the recognized measure of the standard work day with an adequate hourly wage.

"Payment for time worked in excess of the regular eight hours at proper overtime rates for the various characters of service rendered.

"The beginning and ending of working shifts to be so arranged as to permit of reasonable living arrangements by employes and their families.

"Reasonable rules for the protection, health and safety of employes.

"Clear and concise definition of the work of each craft to be performed by workers and helpers.

"The formulation of apprenticeship rules so as to develop sufficient, competent and efficient mechanics.

"Applicants for employment as mechanics to be required to show that they have served an apprenticeship of four years or performed a mechanic's work for a similar period and they not to be denied employment when their services are to be needed, for any reason other than inability to perform the work for which they are making application for employment.

"The rights of the majority of each craft to determine what organization shall govern them. This organization to have the right to make an agreement which shall apply to workers of all crafts.

"The right of the majority of each craft on each railroad to select a committee of representatives who shall handle all grievances which may arise affecting employes of the craft, in accordance with the provisions of the agreement.

"Craft, point seniority, limiting seniority to the local shops or points and not permitting interchange of seniority with other shops, crafts or departments of railroads.

"The right to organize and the protection of employes against discrimination because of membership in labor organizations or for any other reason."

"Our reason for summarizing these fundamentals," Jewell told the board, "is to demonstrate how easy it would have been had the railroads been sincere and how easy it would have been if they were straightforward now for the representatives of railroad management to meet those who have been selected and instructed by the rank and file of railroad employes to adjust the whole matter of national agreements."

Jewell concluded his statement with the request that Frank P. Walsh, attorney representing the unions, be permitted to "present certain matters and requests to the board."

THEN SHE WILL LEAVE

But First Mrs. Scism Will Pray For Judge's Death.

Things look bad for Justice Holbrow of Walden. Mrs. Carrie Scism whom the judge ordered not to interfere with the children of Matthew Annesley, her brother-in-law, is going to pray for the death of the judge and when she prays for a person to die he generally does.

The trouble started when Mr. Annesley's daughter returned from visiting her grandmother. Mrs. Adam Fox, and used bad language. The father assured her of learning the words at her grandmother's and then proceeded to correct her by lifting her on the arm with the flat side of a knife. The girl related her experience to Mrs. Scism and she kept the child at her home. Then Annesley had Mrs. Scism arrested on a charge of kidnapping.

On hearing the court's decision Mrs. Scism gave vent to her feelings in these words: "I'm going to pray that Judge Holbrow will die, and there are two others that I'm to pray for to die. I've never prayed for anyboy to die yet but what they did. After they all die then I'm going to leave Walden."

Rosendale Election Results.

At the age of thirty-six, when most professional boxers have long since retired from the ring, Jack Britton is still king of the welterweights. One of the chief reasons for this is that Britton is a family man and a lover of his home. The white lights hold no lure for the welterweight champion and every evening he may be found in his home in New York with his wife and his three kiddies. Britton married young and his wife takes the keenest interest in her husband's conditioning and while he is in training she supervises his diet. In her opinion Jack can remain champion of his class until he decides to quit. He was born in Chicago in 1885 and has been boxing professionally for sixteen years. Britton has saved his ring earnings and can now be rated as "well-to-do." The illustration shows Jack with his three kiddies in the nursery of his home.

PACKER WORKERS VOTING TO STRIKE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, March 18.—Returns from the strike referendum taken by the stock yards workers throughout the United States were still coming in today to headquarters of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America. Official results of the ballot were to be announced probably late today.

Unofficial returns indicate an overwhelming vote in favor of a strike. In Chicago early unofficial returns showed a ratio of almost 14 to 1 for a walk out while reports from St. Paul, Denver, Omaha, packing centers indicate that the Kansas City, Forth Worth and other vote in these cities strongly favored a strike if the demands of the workers are not granted.

Dennis Lane, secretary of the amalgamated, has charged in a telegram sent to Secretary of Labor Davis that officials of the packing plants are endeavoring, by aggravating tactics, to stampede the workers into a runaway strike. Secretary Davis is asked to use his influence in an effort to stop this practice.

GREEK FACTIONS ARE RESTIVE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 18.—A serious political situation is developing in Greece, according to advices received here today. It was reported that the government was preparing for general demobilization but this was denied by the chief of the general staff, in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens.

The situation was discussed at a meeting of the Greek cabinet.

Under present conditions Greece is ready for any eventuality, the chief of the Greek general staff announced.

Orders have been issued at Athens for the arrest of Former Minister of Finance Negropontis.

BLAST WRECKS ALBANY TROLLEY

State Trooper and Invalid Hurt—Was Culmination of Outbreaks Against Strikebreakers—Car Had Been Loaded With Them Shortly Before.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 18.—Police early today were investigating an explosion which late last night partly wrecked a trolley car injuring two persons and blowing the glass from many houses in the vicinity. Three arrests were made early today. The explosion culminated in a series of minor outbreaks against strikebreaker-manned cars of the United Traction Company.

A motorcycle with sidecar attached, in which state troopers were riding ahead of the car as guards, was blown onto the sidewalk by the force of the explosion. Trooper Merle Holmes was slightly injured. An automobile load of police, also acting as an escort, was blown into the curbing.

John H. Hoyt, an invalid of 765 Broadway, was injured by flying glass.

The wrecked car was known as "The Strikebreakers Special," and was used to convey the strikebreakers from the Quail street car barns to the North Albany barns. On its first trip, less than 15 minutes before the explosion, the car was jammed with strikebreakers. It was empty, except for its crew when the explosion occurred in Broadway between Wilson street and Livingston avenue.

GUEST AT FISCHER'S HOTEL KILLS SELF WITH SHOT FROM REVOLVER

H. W. Smith of Union Grove Found Dead in Room, Apparently Since Thursday—In Good Health and Spirits When Last Seen and No Reason Known for Act.

H. W. Smith of Union Grove, Delaware county, was found dead with a self-inflicted revolver wound directly above the right eye in his bedroom in Fischer's Hotel on the Strand this morning. No reason for his committing suicide has so far been discovered. The body was found lying on the floor fully dressed by Carl G. Fischer, who immediately notified Dr. W. H. Connelly who made an examination of the body, and found that Smith had been dead for some time, all indications being that the wound was self-inflicted. Coroner W. N. Conner was notified, and took charge of the remains.

Smith, who was about 27 years of age and a strapping big man physically, had been registering at Fischer's Hotel off and on for several years past. Monday he appeared at the hotel and asked Mr. Fischer to assign him to a room. He stated that he had come to Kingston to rest up for a few days. During the years that Mr. Fischer had known Smith as a patron of the hotel he had found him a man of genial disposition who easily made friends.

This morning the chambermaid rapped on the door of Smith's room, which was located on the top floor of the hotel, but received no response. She tried the door and found it locked from the inside. As she desired to complete her work of cleaning the rooms on that floor she notified Mr. Fischer who obtained entrance to the room, and found Smith's body lying on the floor between the bed and bureau fully dressed.

At a glance Mr. Fischer saw that the man was dead and immediately hurried to the telephone and called up Dr. Connelly, who hastened to the hotel.

Dr. Connelly made a careful examination of the body and found that death was caused by a bullet wound directly over the right eye. The weapon, a five-shot 38 calibre revolver, lay near the body. There were three chambers of the revolver empty, and an empty shell in a fourth chamber of the weapon, while the other chamber contained a loaded cartridge.

Death had been caused by the one bullet from the revolver, and Dr. Connelly was of the opinion that the man had been dead for some time.

As near as can be ascertained Smith must have taken his life some time Thursday afternoon or early in the evening of that day. No one had heard any unusual noise from his room, and no one seems to have heard the sound of the discharge of the weapon.

Mr. Fischer stated that Smith had been a guest of the hotel at various times for the past several years, and had always been of good habits, and he was unable to account for his shooting himself. When Smith was last seen alive he appeared to be genial and jolly, and apparently had no reason for ending his life.

Coroner Conner will endeavor to get in touch with Smith's relatives, if he has any, at his home in Union Grove.

Later it was learned that Smith had been shaved in Ryan's barber shop, near the hotel, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. This was apparently the last time he was seen alive.

SHOTS EXCHANGED ALONG RIO GRANDE

Two U. S. Soldiers Wounded in Battle Between Mexicans and U. S. Immigration Officers and Troops.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., March 18.—Fighting that broke out last night along the Rio Grande between Mexicans and United States immigration officers and soldiers had died down this morning and the border was quiet. A close guard was being maintained, however, by American troops.

Two United States soldiers were wounded during the exchange of shots and several Mexicans are believed also to have been hit.

The shooting started when an immigration inspector called on three Mexicans crossing the Rio Grande to halt. The Mexicans are said to have opened fire which the immigration officers returned.

Riflemen ambushed along the Mexican side joined in the shooting and United States troops likewise entered the fray. Firing continued almost steadily until an early hour this morning.

Private M. J. Keller, Co. 4, 48th Infantry and Private Petroski were wounded. Petroski's wound is said to be serious. Joseph F. Thomas, an immigration officer, sustained a slight scalp wound.

Washington, March 18.—No reports of the fighting along the Rio Grande had reached the adjutant general of the war department up to noon today.

WILSON KEEPS HOLLOW TITLE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 18.—"Fitz or Ketchel could have knocked either of 'em into the dollar seats!"

An old timer made this observation at the ringside in Madison square Garden as he watched Johnny Wilson successfully defend the middleweight title against the onslaught of Michael O'Dowd. And this impression prevails today in the minds of a vast majority of some 15,000 fistic enthusiasts who saw the "battle."

Wilson's crown is safely perched on his brow today because he is the better of the two. He gave O'Dowd a drubbing in ten out of the 15 rounds and proved his claim that there was nothing flukey about his winning the title.

CHAPIN ORDERED BACK TO CHICAGO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 18.—Daniel C. Chapin, acting supervising Federal prohibition agent for the state of New York for several months, was today ordered to return to Chicago to take up his old position as revenue agent there, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announced.

Revenue Agent Ernest Langley has been placed temporarily in charge of the direction of prohibition enforcement in New York state.

It is understood that the change is made in preparation for an anticipated reorganization when the new administration takes over the work of prohibition enforcement.

Dr. Shattuck To Speak Tomorrow.

Dr. Shattuck of Poughkeepsie, a former member of Vassar College faculty recently returned from Africa where he had been sent by a film concern, and who is a most entertaining speaker, will be the speaker at the open meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs to be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the chapel of the Dutch Reformed Church. The public is cordially invited. The address will be preceded by a business session at 2:30 o'clock at the same place.

St. Patrick's Parade.

The dance given Thursday night by the Elks at their home on Fair street was the best yet. About one hundred couples took part in dancing. The ball was decorated with green and white which were shipped from the south especially for this dance. Bolle's orchestra furnished the music for the dancing.

FIVE YEAR PRUNING DEMONSTRATIONS

The Ulster County Farm Bureau will start several five year pruning demonstrations in the county next week, which are scheduled as follows:

Monday, March 21st, T. E. Ives, Marlborough, 1:30 p. m.

Tuesday, March 22nd, Bertram Cottine, Highland, 1:30 p. m.

Wednesday, March 23rd, W. G. Minard, Clintondale, 1:30 p. m.

Thursday, March 24, William Schryver, Ulster Park, 1:30 p. m.

Friday, March 25th, John L. Ostrander, Hurley, 1:30 p. m.

Professor R. W. Rees of the state college will be in charge of the demonstrations and he will prune a certain number of trees in the orchard as a demonstration block. Every year for five years a public demonstration will be held on these same orchards and Professor Rees will prune according to the most up-to-date practices. The idea of a five year demonstration is to give the growers a chance to see the results of the pruning as carried out by a representative of the state college and then compare their methods with those followed by the fruit growers of the county.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, March 17.—The new art gallery is taking on shape and is growing after a hold up on account of trouble in securing lumber.

The new house of Cambridge Lasher on West Main street is also progressing nicely as is the home of Griffin Herrick on North street.

The new house of Louis Jones will soon be ready for the tenants who are expected April 1.

Mr. Parker is having a large porch built on his much improved property on West Main street.

The Lutheran Church on Academy street has just had a new roof put on.

The Woodstock Garage has been doubled in size and is now a complete business place

Henry Lincoln is home from Troy Conference Academy or Poultney, Vt. Frank Griffin of Saratoga spent a few days with Henry Lincoln

Miss Ruth Lincoln is spending a week with her parents.

Mrs Anna Short was a caller in Kingston the first of the week.

The lecture in the Reformed Church on Wednesday evening was largely attended. The Rev. Nicholas gave a very interesting lecture on "The Passion Play" as he saw it in 1900. Mr. Nicholas has a fine presence and at times was very dramatic. The lecture was well received. One who had given it twice himself and heard it once before said "The best ever." The proceeds were for the starving children in China.

The Rev. J. H. Lincoln was called to Newburgh on Sunday afternoon to attend a funeral of a friend. Failing to reach home in time for evening service he attended the Union services in the Fair Street Reformed Church, Kingston.

Mrs. Daniel Parks of Livingston Manor was a visitor at the M. E. parsonage for a few days.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR DINNER.

A tomato soup without meat is one of the good, hearty and easy soups to prepare.

In a good-sized saucepan place one sweet pepper, one onion, one carrot and one turnip, all medium sized and finely minced. Add a sprig of parsley, one stalk of celery, one piece of bay leaf, one leaf of cabbage and two cloves. Add two quarts of tomatoes and one quart of water. If fresh tomatoes are used, do not peel them. Cover and simmer one hour, or until the vegetables are tender. Season with a tablespoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper and two teaspoonfuls of sugar; more may be added according to taste. Strain all through a colander. Return the soup to the kettle and thicken with one tablespoonful of flour and one tablespoonful of sweet fat. One may can this soup and have it ready for reheating for an emergency soup.

Rice With Chicken.—Take a young chicken, cut up for frying. Take one tablespoonful each of lard and butter; melt in an iron kettle. When hot, add the chicken, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper; stir and cook until the chicken is brown (this will take about fifteen minutes). Then add two cloves of garlic, one small onion, chopped, and two green peppers, sliced. When these are cooked add one cupful of rice and two cupfuls of boiling water. When the rice is nearly done add one cupful of cooked peas and six chopped olives. Serve with strips of canned red pepper laid over the top for a garnish.

Apple Cake.—Line a deep pie plate with pastry, then mix together one-half cupful each of raisins, rolled walnuts, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and one teaspoonful of sugar (sprinkle this over the crust). On top of this arrange slices of apple, using three greenings. Pour over them one egg and one cupful of milk mixed; add one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon and dot with two teaspoonfuls of butter. Place in a moderate oven until the custard is set, then reduce heat, baking about forty-five minutes.

PINE GROVE.

Pine Grove, March 17.—The Saugerties Sewing Club met with Mrs. J. A. Benoit on Thursday afternoon. After sewing a little, refreshments were served by Mrs. Benoit at four o'clock, after which the party returned to their respective homes hoping to meet with Mrs. Fred Short in the near future.

Mrs H C. Burton and daughter spent Wednesday with her mother on Elizabeth street.

Miss Columbe Benoit spent the week end with Miss Fitzgerald in Kingston and Monday night with Miss Ruth Sheppard.

E B Cadwell of Chicago was an over Sunday guest at his farm in this place.

H Taylor made a business trip to the city the past week

Mrs. Fred Short entertained her father and mother of High Woods on Sunday.

Miss Lily Rasmussen of West Saugerties was a visitor of Mrs C Knudson on Thursday.

Gustave Kolle has returned to his work after stopping with his parents for several weeks.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

IX.—NEW HAMPSHIRE

To New Hampshire falls the honor of casting the vote which definitely formed the United States. The Constitution was to formally take effect when nine states had ratified it and on June 21, 1788, New Hampshire rounded out the necessary quota of the states. This beat Virginia for the deciding vote by only four days.

The beginnings of New Hampshire lead back to Captain Mason, who had been governor of Portsmouth in Hampshire, England. Thus was the name of the colony derived and also that of its first city, Portsmouth. As a reward for Mason's faithfulness to King Charles he was allotted a large territory north of the Merrimac river. The first settlements were started in 1623 in Rye and Dover. Shortly after, a theological dispute arose in Boston, led by Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, which resulted in her being banished. Some of her followers went north and founded Exeter, not far from the towns of Portsmouth and Dover. Shortly after the town of Hampton was settled by Massachusetts people. As Captain Mason died soon after this, these four towns in 1641 joined themselves to Massachusetts. In 1679, however, King Charles II separated them again and formed the royal province of New Hampshire.

The present area of New Hampshire is 9,341 square miles. From the rugged aspect of its White mountains has come the name Granite state, by which it is often popularly called. The population of New Hampshire warrants an electoral vote of four for president.

TILLSON.

Tillson, March 17.—The Ladies' Aid held its annual dinner and meeting in the church last last Thursday, and a large number was present. All enjoyed a lovely chicken dinner that was served by the committee. All the old officers were re-elected to serve for another year. The Ladies' Aid is growing as twelve new members have been added and only one name has been taken from the book during the year.

The rally was well attended Friday night, 51 people being present. A very nice evening was spent by all present. Cake and coffee were served. Reports were received from the various societies of the church and all were approved.

On account of the illness of Mrs. I. Merrihew the quilting was postponed.

Mrs. Jacob Christiana has recovered from her recent illness

Mrs. Norman Parker is entertaining her friend Mrs. Ernest and children for a time

Sylvia Fradenburgh of Kingston visited relatives and friends over Sunday here

Old Mother Hubbard
Went to the cupboard,
To the box where her money was hid;
But when she got there,
The cupboard was bare,
Some burglar had jimmied the lid.

THIS sad experience taught Old Mother Hubbard that it is not safe to store money in the home no matter how carefully it is hidden. So—

Mother Hubbard today
Puts her savings away
In her neighborhood SAVINGS Bank, where
The LAW guards its keeping
And sound is her sleeping,
She knows it will always be there.

NO STATE AID FOR US

When Kingstonians read of the plan proposed to solve the housing problem in New York city and other big cities of the state and compare it with the plan which has been undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce, there is a feeling of satisfaction over the character of men who are interesting themselves in Kingston's development and prosperity. Both plans are similar in their general features, which are based on the savings and loan principle

The New York city plan, which would apply also to other cities of more than 500,000 population, involves the creation of a loan fund by the state of $100,000,000, to be used for the construction of one and two-family dwelling houses, and large apartment houses capable of sheltering many families. The applicant for a loan would first be required to own the fee of the land and a loan would be made equal to 80 per cent of the combined value of the land and completed dwelling. The design and style or architecture of the dwelling or apartment would be determined by a state board, and payments in installments, with interest, would extend over a certain number of years The plan to help New York city would not, of course, be applicable to Kingston because of its size, so smaller communities must solve their own building problems.

The only practical difference between the New York plan and the Kingston plan is that under the Kingston plan the money necessary for building is obtained from one of the two local savings and loan associations. Under the New York plan, the borrower, the home-builder, obtains no greater rights or privileges than the man who builds his home through the help of one of the local savings and loan associations. On account of the immensity of the New York plan and the chance of its being made part of the political system, the home-builder in New York or other big cities would find himself hampered where the Kingston man anxious to own his home would find cooperation on the part of his neighbors and friends who form the local association of which he becomes a member.

The safeguards placed by the state around the local savings and loan associations make their stock the equal in security to any municipal, state or national bonds If the plan by which it is proposed to relieve the housing situation in New York and other cities of more than a half million population goes in effect, the public will be asked to subscribe to such bonds, not only as a safe investment but to help New Yorkers to own their homes. The stock of the local savings and loan associations is exactly as safe an investment and the members of the local associations are helping to build homes in their own city in which they have a far greater interest.

The condition must appeal strongly to the men and women who have decided to practice thrift and to those whose interest in Kingston leads them to the desire to do something worth while which will benefit their neighbors while at the same time it benefits them. The campaign workers who are aiding the Chamber of Commerce in its home-building plan need not fear refusal in their efforts to secure new members for the savings and loan associations because of any practical argument against such membership because there is no argument against it. The question of furnishing houses to people so as to enable Kingston to grow bigger rests with the people of Kingston and with nobody else. We must solve our own housing problem. The Chamber of Commerce has shown the way to do it. The people must do the rest.

"JOY" FOR RICH MAN'S SON

Thomas Mitten of Philadelphia says he is not going to leave any money to his son because he does not wish to deprive that young man of the joy of earning his own living. What are the son's views in this connection the interviewer does not state but it is pretty safe to venture that they are not quite identical with those of his father. There is an impression not without substantial basis that the average rich man's son discovers more joy in jazz than in jobs, and that in no few instances he works only when an unmanageable parent of the Mitten type refuses him an allowance. But if young Mitten does not like work he will have to learn to, for he appears to face the need of individual effort to an extent equal to that of any poor boy. According to the story, his father will not only decline to leave him any money but will have none to leave. Thomas Mitten does not believe in accumulating money beyond his needs and every year "gives away" all he makes above those needs

The plan seems to be uncompromising and in no way inconsistent, and yet, after all, Mr Mitten may be inconsistent If any considerable part of the large sum he gives away every year goes, not to public institutions, but to individuals he is limiting the joys of labor to his son only and inflicting the harm from which he aims to save his own family upon outside beneficiaries. Upon the whole the Mitten plan commends itself less than that of the rich man who, after educating his son, compels him to earn his bread for some years and then gives him money wherewith to build a fortune if capacity for such achievement has been acquired through practical industrial training

If a zoning ordinance had been in effect it is likely a couple of the new oil distributing stations for which land has been bought here would have to locate on sites less strategic but also where they would be less likely to annoy residents and depreciate the values of their properties.

HOW TO MAKE A HOT-BED.

The growing season never arrives early enough for the enthusiastic gardener, and if he can possibly beat the neighbors, with fresh vegetables ready for the table a month ahead of theirs, he will do so.

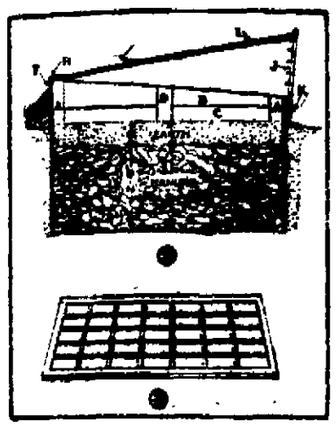

A hot-bed is in reality a miniature greenhouse, heated by stable manure.

It consists of a pit from 2 to 3 feet deep, filled with manure to within 6 inches of the ground level, with a 6-inch top dressing of garden soil. The front wall of the frame extends 6 inches or so above the ground, the rear wall 12 inches or so, the sides slope from the height of the front wall to the height of the rear wall, and the open top is protected with glazed sash.

The size of the hot-bed will be determined by the size and number of sash at hand. Storm-sash or old window sash will do. Regular hot-bed sash can be purchased at door-and-sash mills, and through dealers handling garden accessories, in size 3 feet wide and 6 feet long (Fig. 3).

Figure 1 shows a single-section hot-bed. Corner posts A of the framework (Fig. 4) are 2-by-4s, side boards B and end boards E and F are cut from 1-by-6s, and boards C and G are 1-by-6s. Rip a triangular strip from the upper edge of boards B, as shown in Fig. 5, so one end will measure 1¾ inches wide, the other end 7¾ inches wide. The framework must be made enough narrower than the sash so the sash will lap over the sides, and 2 or 3 inches longer than the sash to allow for the strip H (Fig. 2), which is nailed across the top as a hinge-strip to screw the sash hinges to. Side pieces B will be of the right length for sash 6 feet long, if cut as shown in Fig. 5.

In assembling the framework, nail side boards B and C to corner posts A, then connect the two frames thus formed, by boards E, F and G. Batten the side boards at their center with pieces D.

Dig the hot-bed pit of the right depth to the lower edge of framework boards C, E and G will come 2 inches below the ground surface.

Procure enough fresh horse manure to fill the pit to a depth of 2 feet (Fig. 2). Fork it into a heap and allow it to remain exposed to the air for a few days to ferment. Then pitch it into the pit and trample it down to a compact mass. A top soil 6 inches in depth in which to plant must be spread over the manure. Before adding this, put the sash in place and allow the manure to ferment. Raise the sash to allow the excess heat to escape. The temperature must be reduced until not greater than 90-degrees. Determine the temperature with a thermometer. Figure 2 shows a prop for holding open the sash. Drive several nails into a stick J (Fig. 2), and hinge the end of this stick to a block (K) fastened to the front of the framework (Fig. 1).

The temperature of the growing soil must not be too great, else the plant roots will burn out, so regulate this by raising the sash. Raising the sash also provides the plants with the necessary fresh air. Water regularly. After the seeds have sprouted, dump the sweet wild-hay on the leaves will dry off before sundown.

A cold-frame differs from a hot-bed only by the omission of the manure heating agent. Sunlight alone is depended upon for heat. Consequently, the cold-frame can be depended upon only for forcing plants after the severe weather has passed. You can use the hot-bed as a cold-frame later.

For protection at night, cover the sash with pieces of carpet or with straw mats.

You Can't Figure It Up.

You can count up the hermits on an ear of corn, but you never can count the ears in a single kernel.

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

MARY C. YOUNG.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. George F. Kaufman, Surrogate of the County of Ulster, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against Mary C. Young, late of Kingston, County of Ulster, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof to the subscriber, at its principal place of transacting business, No. 22 William Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before the 9th day of August 1921.

Dated, New York, the 26th day of January, 1921.

STATE INCOME TAX INFORMATION

Taxpayers in Ulster county should file their returns with District Director J. DePuy Hasbrouck at 518 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., on or befor April 15, 1921.

Retired: Will the state follow the recent announcement of Solicitor General Frierson and change its method of computing profit or loss from the January 1, 1919 value to the dates of purchase and sale?

Answer—No. On advice of the Attorney General the New York State Income Tax Bureau will continue to recognize the provisions of section 353 of the tax law and compute gains or profits on securities purchased prior to January 1, 1919, by the difference between their value on that date and the amount realized at disposal. There is no restriction in the New York State Constitution as to the power of the legislature in defining income similar to the limitation contained in the Sixteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

A. E. L.: In 1920 I sold two pieces of property and received in each instance only one-third of the sale price in cash. The balance was covered by two mortgages. What measure of gain do I report in my blank?

Answer—You should report as income the total profit realized from these sales, including both the cash payment and the face value of the mortgages.

Mrs. B.:—(1) My husband died during the year and I received $5,480 on a life insurance policy. Is any part of this income? (2) I invested this amount of G. E. Stock. Are the dividends from this stock taxable?

Answer—(1) No. The proceeds of life insurance policy paid to individual beneficiaries are not taxable. (2) Your earnings from this investment should be included in your gross income.

Chestnut street: In making my income report must I include $57.50 monthly which I received as government war risk insurance on account of a son who died in a cantonment?

Answer—No. Such amounts are excluded from gross income.

Attorney: What is the meaning of Article 244 of the Regulations that "a statutory allowance paid a widow out of the corpus of the estate is not deductible from gross income?"

Answer—Possibly if you add to this sentence "of the estate" the intent will be apparent. It means that since the amount in question under the code (section 2670) is deducted from the corpus of the estate it is not a proper deduction from the annual income of the estate for income tax puposes.

E. J. W.: As I am heavily insured a considerable amount of dividends accrued in 1920 on unmatured insurance policies. Are these amounts taxable?

Answer—No. Dividends accrued against insurance premiums on unmatured policies are excluded from gross income.

Brooklyn: Where will I find a rule as to determining income in the case of shares in a building and loan association?

Answer—Article 46 of the comptroller's regulations provides that where this accumulation does not become available until maturity of the share, the amount in excess of the aggregate payments by the shareholder (or value on January 1, 1919, plus subsequent payments) is income.

Nurse: Am I taxable on my salary only or should I add the fair value of the board and room furnished me in the Women's Hospital?

Answer—You should include in gross income both the salary and the value of your room and lodging.

M. B. V.—Does the head of a household exemption apply to me where upon death of my wife I moved my eight year old son and myself to a boarding house?

Answer—Yes.

Partner—What is the income to members of a partnership which controlled a lease and sold it to a corporation for $50,000?

Answer—The profit on this transaction may be computed by taking the fair and reasonable worth of the lease as of January 1, 1919, and the difference between that sum, and the $50,000, is the total profit to be included in the distributive shares of the members of the partnership.

"THE WORLD DO MOVE"

The old darky preacher who said that to his flock, was telling a truth that many people fail to realize in many ways.

For instance, many folks cannot, or will not see that plumbing and bathroom fixtures that were designed according to the best ideas of twenty years ago, are no longer safely sanitary in the light of today's knowledge.

STOP AND THINK! How is your own house in this respect?

Altogether too many householders are running dangerous risks because of insanitary conditions of this sort, and also, endlessly spending good money in a hopeless effort to keep such equipment in repair.

Modern plumbing and fixtures are almost completely damage proof.

Take advantage of our high grade service, material and workmanship.

ADMIRAL PRAISES ROTARY CLUB WORK

Hopes Boys' Committee Work May Be Extended by Opening School Houses as Recreation and Americanization Centers For Young and Old.

Admiral Francis J. Higginson has written the following letter to the Rev. Dr Frank B. Seeley, president of the Kingston Rotary Club:

The Rev. F. B. Seeley,
President Rotary Club,
Kingston, New York.

Dear Sir:—I have had recently the pleasure of witnessing the good work which your club, through its boys' work committee is doing in giving to some of the young boys of Kingston an evening of play, with a bath and swim, in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. and I want to tell you how much I enjoyed the sight and how much I admire not only the work itself but also the splendid welfare spirit in which it was conceived.

For business men to turn aside from their occupations and open the doors of a play paradise to children starving for play, to gather them, so to speak, in their big brotherhood arms and lift them to a higher and purer level of enjoyment, is to clothe themselves in the royal robes of charity and brotherly love, the foundation stones of welfare work.

If you could have heard the wild shrieks of delight with which the torrent of untutored boyhood rushed into the gymnasium and seized upon every appartus on the floor it would have done your heart good and repaid you for all your labors. This was before Mr Buley arrived to conduct their organized play.

I could not help thinking what a happy time it will be for our young boys when not only a limited and selected number can enjoy such a privilege once a week that every boy can do so every night in the week. This can be done and is done in some communities, by opening the school houses as recreation and amusement centers These centers are even made use of as adult forums with lectures and screen shows and for Americanization purposes. It seems a good use to make of public school property and perhaps some day we may see it in Kingston

I would like also, if you will allow me to say a word about our working girls. There are, I believe about 2,000 of them in factories and as far as I know nothing has as yet been done for their recreation or enjoyment during leisure hours. A place where they could dance, bathe and swim would, I am sure be very acceptable to them. Perhaps some day the women of the city may interest themselves in this much needed welfare project.

But the Rotarians are all right and are blazing the trail towards better welfare conditions. May they live long and be prosperous and in appreciation of their good work I beg leave to enclose herewith a check for ten dollars

Sincerely yours,
FRANCIS J. HIGGINSON.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Comfortable, Attractive Frock For Mother's Girl.

Pattern 3,633 is here portrayed. It is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size will require 2¾ yards of 27 inch material.

Trout Season Opens April 2.

The open season for brook trout begins in Ulster county on the first Saturday in April, which falls on April 2 this year. From then on hundreds of Ulster sportsmen will have two chief objects in life—one to use their spare time to fool the wily trout with, the other to create more spare time. Workers are being rushed in the hayrig in some parts of the country and the streams are rapidly free of ice it should be an end of the ordinary season for fishing due to the phenomenally open winter and early spring—either remarkably good or worse than usual.

MURDER PLOT IN MEXICAN STRIKE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, March 18.—Secret service agents have unearthed a plot to kill important officials of the National Railway lines, in connection with the rail strike, it was learned from an authoritative source today. The officials who were said to have been marked for death at a secret meeting are Director General Perez and his assistants, J. M. Carpio, F. P. Landa, and N. Prociel; Secretaries O. A. Gravito and C. Zapata; Superintendent of Telegraph E. B. Arras and Col. A. P. Farro, commanding the troops guarding the line. Another hitch has occurred into putting into effect the strike agreement over the men's demands that all strike-breakers be discharged.

Minister of Interior De la Huerta is engaged in straightening out the tangle and said he hoped for a solution very soon.

Ten thousand workers in the Orizaba district quit work on Thursday, in sympathy with the rail men.

PLEA FOR NEGLECTED MEN

Three Thousand Veterans From Legion Ranks Are Explaining Situation to American People.

Three thousand volunteer speakers from the ranks of the American Legion in every state are now carrying by word-of-mouth to the American people the Legion's story of the "suffering, shameful neglect and injustice" in the government's administration of the nation's debt to the disabled, which was contained in the formal memorial which the Legion presented to President Wilson, President-elect Harding, and to all members of congress. Probably never before in the history of the country has such an army of orators been mobilized to speak at the same time upon a single text.

John Thomas Taylor.

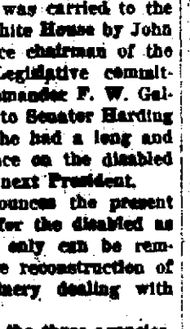

The Legion aims to present to the people of the United States the facts regarding the disabled in the same language as they were presented to the officials of the government. The Legion's memorial was carried to the President at the White House by John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the Legion National Legislative committee. National Commander F. W. Galbraith, Jr., gave it to Senator Harding at Marion, where he had a long and important conference on the disabled situation with the next President.

The Legion denounces the present method of caring for the disabled as a "failure" which only can be remedied by the entire reconstruction of the federal machinery dealing with the problem.

The functions of the three agencies, which deal with the problems of the disabled, the bureau of war risk insurance, the federal board for vocational education, and the United States public health service, "must be co-ordinated, their machinery decentralized and all three placed under civilian control," the memorial states. As an equally essential remedy for existing conditions, the memorial urges the immediate appropriation for the use of the unified organization of a sum ample to build or rent a sufficient number of hospitals to take care of the 16,000 ex-service men who are unable to receive treatment at present because of lack of beds and shelter.

The "failure" of the government to afford justice to the sick and wounded veterans is attributed by the Legion to "an astonishing state of divided responsibility and wasted effort among the government agencies with which the problem rests."

The break in the chain of responsibility occurs, according to the memorial, as a result of the fact that the war risk bureau is under and responsible to an assistant secretary of the treasury, an officer of the executive branch of the government, while the federal board for vocational education is responsible only to congress, and is under none of the executive departments of the government.

F. W. Galbraith, Jr.

The memorial asserts that the United States has been more liberal than any other nation in its provisions for the disabled soldiers, but that it has failed in large measure to make these provisions available in spite of the benefit of the experience of other nations in the recent war and the experience of this nation in previous wars.

"In the re-habilitation of a disabled man there are three needs—medical treatment, vocational training and financial support," the memorial states. "The government has recognized the three needs, but overlooks the fact that they are the simultaneous needs of one man, not of three different men or of one man at three different times. It makes three problems out of what really is one problem.

"Continuing this faulty conception, it has given the problem over to three agencies. All, by force of circumstances, are exercising functions they were not intended to exercise. This presents an amazing spectacle of administrative chaos, duplication, wasted effort and conflict, which is the key to the present condition.

"The result is the suffering of the disabled veterans. Thousands are waiting and have waited for months for compensation for their injuries. Thousands have waited for months for an opportunity to re-establish themselves as self-sustaining members of society by vocational training. Thousands are in need of hospitalization, and the government has no hospital facilities available for them. Of the 26,000 now in hospitals, 4,500 are confined in institutions unsuited to the needs of the men quartered there. Imperial rules are developing at the rate of 1,500 a month to convert the number discharged. Sixteen thousand beds are needed now. Thousands of veterans are the object of public and private charity. Afflicted and penniless veterans have been driven to refuge in almshouses and jails. Many have died, and if immediate relief is not forthcoming, many will die destitute, without proper medical care, without compensation with which to obtain it, abandoned by the country they served. All this is attributable directly to the manner in which the government has administered the affairs of the disabled.

"The bureau of war risk insurance is responsible for the payment of compensation and for medical and hospital care of the man. Logically, this would involve establishing contact with the men at the time of their discharge from the military or naval service. It should then determine the existence and degree of disability and compensation on this basis.

"Due to the centralization of the bureau's forces in Washington, it is practically impossible under the present law to establish contact with the man entitled to these benefits. The disabled man is placed in the position of a man injured in industry who must sue the company. He must carry on an involved and technical correspondence. It is usually months after he is dropped from the pay rolls of the army or navy before he is taken upon the pay roll of the bureau, even though his service discharge shows a definite degree of disability. On November 26, 1920, 33,000 cases were pending in the bureau awaiting definite adjustment of compensation. Thousands are suffering and many have died as a result of this neglect.

"The federal board for vocational training will accept the evidence of the bureau's medical files granting compensation as proof that a man is entitled to vocational training. The bureau, however, will not accept the evidence that the board has awarded training as proof that a man is entitled to compensation.

"If the veteran is receiving compensation and wants training, usually he must take another physical examination, administered by the board to determine whether the claimant has a vocational handicap entitling him to training pay, or merely a compensable disability granting him training only. If the veteran is not receiving compensation, due to delay by the bureau, he must be examined by the board, to determine his eligibility for training, as well.

"When a man enters training with training pay, his compensation stops and he is shifted from the pay roll of the bureau to the pay roll of the board. The board, which was created as a training agency only, has become a compensating agency as well. Many men have been kept on the pay roll of the board, not as a training measure solely, but as a measure of financial relief which they were entitled to, but unable to obtain from the bureau.

"When a man is dropped from training he is supposed to be dropped from the pay roll of the board and taken up by the bureau. On both shifts there is delay. The average length of time for a man to be dropped from the bureau pay roll and taken up on the board pay roll is about three weeks. The average time required for the second shift back to the bureau pay roll is two months. No provision is made for the man's maintenance during these interims. In the majority of cases a man must undergo a new physical examination before the bureau will again pay him compensation. In other words, he must again prove his claim.

"The position of the United States public health service is peculiar. It took its place in the re-habilitation scheme poorly equipped for the work it was to perform, but was apparently the best medical governmental agency then available. It acts as an agent both of the bureau and the board, but is responsible to no authority common to both board and bureau, because there is no such authority.

"In view of this condition the remarkable thing about the present re-habilitation program is that it has accomplished what little it has. Such progress as has been made is a tribute to the sincerity of the men in the bureau, the board and the public health service who generally have made the best of an impossible situation.

"The best of this impossible situation, however, has been insufficient always. This is particularly true regarding hospitalization.

"Of the 26,000 men now in hospitals, 4,500 are in institutions which are unfit because suitable hospital facilities are not available."

The Legion avers that 16,000 beds are needed at once. Of this number, 1,500 are necessary for transfer of tubercular patients from present unsatisfactory hospitals, and 3,000 for transfer of neuro-psychiatric patients from the inadequate buildings which they occupy now. The number of tubercular cases in need of immediate hospitalization is estimated to be 6,000 and the neuro-psychiatric cases at 7,000. Beds are also required for about 900 general, medical and surgical cases.

WHERE FROGS ARE CHICKENS

Tariff Laws of the United States Say They Are Same and Alike "in Three Counts."

To one not versed in tariff law, or familiar with the devious and tortuous channels of reasoning followed only by customs legal luminaries, some of the decisions at first appear to be rather odd. Frogs have become chickens for tariff purposes, venison has been held to be beef and live snails have soberly been decided to be consummated unmanufactured articles, remarks the San Francisco Chronicle.

Reason begins to totter on its throne and completely tumbles off when one learns that a firebrick weighing under five pounds is a firebrick weighing over five pounds. Reason, however, can pick up its scepter and climb back to its easy chair with a sigh of relief after reading a wonderful paragraph in the law known as the similitude clause. If an article is not provided for, either by name or material, and has one of four characteristics of an article that is provided for, it takes the same rate of duty. If the harmless article resembles any other article either in material, quality, texture or in use to which it may be applied it becomes that article for tariff purposes. Frog meat is similar in the white meat of chicken in three counts, venison scores on one for the reason that both venison and beef are eaten and firebricks weighing under five pounds are used in exactly the same manner as those weighing over five pounds.

IRELAND UNDER ALIEN RULE

About 900 A. D., the pagan hosts of the Northmen and Danes fell on Ireland with fierce destruction. After a century of destruction, Irish kingled their people to a succession of wars, for the deliverance of their country, and Brian Boromh, or Brian Boru (926-1014), king of Munster, by his great victory in the battle of Clontarf, on April 23, 1014, finally broke the power of the Danes in Ireland. In 1171 Ireland was invaded by the Normans from England, in the time of Henry II, and the conquest began. "In Ireland," to quote the words of Prof. Edward A. Freeman (1823-1892) "the Normans ran more purely [illegible] than anywhere else, but in Ireland his power of adaptation caused him to sink in a way in which he sank nowhere else. While some of the Norman settlers in Ireland went to swell the mass of the English of the Pale, others threw in their lot with the native Irish, and became, in the well-known saying, 'more Irish than the Irish themselves.'"—Detroit News.

Religion of Good Citizenship.

"In China there existed in the past, and there are evidences that it is coming to life again, the religion of good citizenship," says a writer in Asia Magazine. "That is to say, the Chinese theory is that a man does not need to feel the need of physical force to protect himself; he has seldom the need even to call in and use the physical force of the policeman—of the state—to protect him. A man in China is supposed to be protected by the sense of justice of his neighbor; he is protected by the readiness of his fellowmen to obey the sense of moral obligation. The ideal of Chinese civilization, therefore, is that a man can not feel the need of using physical force to protect himself because he is sure that right and justice is recognized by all his neighbors as a force higher than physical force, and that moral obligation as recognized by everybody is something that must be obeyed."

Cream Must Be Hollow.

In Lassen county, California, is a spot called Dry lake, which is in reality almost an arid plain, with sagebrush scattered here and there over it, and its area is two and a half by four miles. On one side are the Pit River mountains and on another are big pine woods, while to the west are the famous lava beds, in which the Indians hid during that last great California struggle with the savages. A winding road leads up from the valley below into the cultus basin.

If a horse walks on this rocky soil anywhere, even two or three miles outside the border of the Dry lake, he can be heard for many miles up in the interior. The ground all about there sends forth a hollow sound. Reverberations can be heard everywhere. A footfall may be heard like a sound in a great cavern.

Going Some.

Bacon—I see a man has invented a watch that will go for six years without winding. What do you say to that?

Egbert—Well, I should say that is going some.

WHERE BUNGLER DOES HARM

Always Makes a Mess of His Own Life and Too Frequently the Lives of Others.

Bunglers are frequently talkers above their ability to perform. To be sure they want to be rated well among their friends and frequently go to the limit in telling others what they are going to do. That's how George got into the hospital. It seems George and another colored chap did the gardening on a certain man's estate in the Middle West. One morning George didn't turn up. The master went to Sam and said: "Sam, where's George?" "In de hospital, sah." "In the hospital; how did that happen?" "Well, you see," replied Sam, "George is married and he'd be'n telling me for a long time as how he's goin' to lick his wife, 'cause her naggin', and yisttidy she done beat him at it. Dat's all." And how many there are like him. They are going to turn the world upside down until they meet face to face with the facts.

After the bunglers get in their work it's impossible for anyone else to make a good job of it. They take perfectly good reputations and leave them pretty poor examples of what is good. No wood butcher ever made a bigger mess of good lumber than has many a bungler inside of other people's lives. And their antics even bungle up their own lives. They get their heads full of notions that lead to folly. Like guns, they go off half-cocked and the damage can never be repaired. Careless of the facts, they frequently make assertions that are far from true and act according to what you expect of such creatures. Every effort added seems to add to the confusion.—Grit.

RIDE ON SUNBEAM EXPRESS

Journey That Would Be Remarkable for Speed and for Wonders Seen Along the Way.

Emile Belot, the French astronomer, suggests that, if one were able to straddle a light ray (which travels 186,000 miles a second) and thus voyage through space, observations along the route would be exceedingly interesting.

It would take only a little more than a second to reach the moon and in 4 minutes and 20 seconds one would arrive at the planet Mars. One would get as far as Jupiter in 33 minutes, Saturn in 1 hour and 10 minutes, Uranus in 2½ hours and to Neptune in 4 hours.

On the way one would come across a great many comets without tails—nebulous bodies of spherical shape which are rarely seen from the earth.

It would take two years to get outside the sphere of the sun's attraction, and by that time our orb of day would look like nothing more important than a big star.

The star nearest to us, Alpha Centauri, would meanwhile be looming up, and the wayfarer through space might expect to arrive there in a little more than four years. By this time he would have journeyed 24,000,000,000 miles.

Painfully Thrilling Game.

The natives of the Philippine islands have a game known as "slapping." It is played by two men. Both are nude, and after tossing a shell to determine who is "it," one of them, the "it" man, takes a seat on a log in such a manner as to expose his right thigh. He then lights a cigarette and endeavors to maintain an air of contemptuous indifference.

The other man steps back so as to get a good swing, and then slaps with his hand with every ounce of strength he can put into it. The report sounds like a pistol shot. A judge examines the spot where the blow fell. If a blood blister is shown—that is, if the blood can be seen just under the skin—the victim has no chance to come back at his antagonist. If it does not show, then he can swing at the other fellow.

Simple Epitaphs.

While there is still toleration as to the ultimate epitaph for the "Unknown Warrior," it is interesting to remember that in Westminster abbey, where he is to be laid, are at least five monumental inscriptions of model brevity and beauty.

One is, of course, the "O Rare Ben Jonson," in Poets' corner.

The other, less known, but possibly most widely appealing of all, is in the cloisters, to a young girl who died in the Seventeenth century.

"To Jane Lister." It reads, "Dear Childe."—London Chronicle.

Annoying Question.

Flatbush—I see by this paper that there are 4,000 insects in the body of a man.

Bensonhurst—Well, say, I guess I'll give up eating meat as a matter hereafter and eat a few of my uncle's.

CHOSE POOR PLACE TO REST

Traveler in Spain Not Fully Aware as to Just What Uses Beds Were Sometimes Put.

An American tells of a visit he once made to the town of Yusta, in the northwestern corner of Spain. He had sought rest under discouraging circumstances, after a ride on mule-back over miles of dusty road. While the hostess of the inn was preparing his dinner he proposed to himself to rest upon the bed in the public room.

Nothing could, he says, have been more tempting than that cool white bed, after his laborious trip, and without saying a word to the Senora Pareno, he threw himself at full length upon it.

Scarcely had he done so when a shriek arose, and the little woman flew at him like a wild creature. She seized him and dragged him off the bed with the strength of two men. He was too much dazed to resist, but retreated before her.

"Oh, Dios mio, Dios mio!" she shrieked. "They are mined—ruined!" Whereupon she tore back the cover of the bed, and to the traveler's amazement disclosed row after row of biscuits! They had been placed there to rise. To rise! Down the center of the rows his weight had flattened them beyond recognition; only at the farthest edge had a few escaped.

Pumice Should Make Us Bright.

Pumice is formed by the solidification of the foam produced on molten lava by the escape of gases. The inside make-up of high-grade pumice is cellular and the specific gravity of the stone is so low that dry pumice floats in water. The known deposits of dry lime are not considerable, although the stone is scattered over large areas of the world's ocean bed.

Italian pumice is the highest grade known to the trade. The volcanic island of Lipari lying off the north coast of Sicily about 40 miles from the Italian mainland, is the seat of the industry.

Pumice is used chiefly by automobile and carriage manufacturers, marble workers, lithographers, plaster and stucco workers of patent leather and enamel. Crushed to powder, it is used for scouring and polishing. Shipments amounting to 2,000,000 pounds of pumice were made to the United States in the six months from January to June, 1920, by one firm in Lipari.

SOVIETS CRUSH KRONSTADT REVOLT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Helsingfors, March 18.—Large numbers of the anti Bolshevik insurgents who were defeated by the Red troops at the fortress of Kronstadt have fled into Finland. The rebels blew up the warships Petropavlosk and Sebastopol before they fled. Kronstadt—both the town and the forts surrounding it—is in the hands of the Reds who have begun to repair the damage done by the heavy fighting in that district.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, March 17.—An illustrated lecture and entertainment will be given by the Rev. G. E. Wright, D. D., in the Esopus Methodist Church Wednesday evening, March 23d. Subject "England and Scotland." Mr Tinnie and brother of Port Ewen will sing Scotch songs in the costume of their native country. Mrs Mabie also of Port Ewen will be the accompanist. A large attendance is earnestly desired. Lecture begins promptly at 8 o'clock. Homemade ice cream, cake and coffee will be on sale in the basement at the close of the entertainment. Proceeds for the benefit of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coutant and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Coutant and little son Robert of Highland were visitors at the home of Mrs Caroline Ashton Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs George Drake with their two daughters, Emma and Anna May, of Linden, New Jersey, motored to Esopus last Saturday to spend the week-end with Mr. Drake's sister, Mrs Fred Martin.

The congregation at the Methodist Church listened to the Rev. T. W. Bond with much pleasure last Sunday afternoon and the reverend gentleman appeared to greatly enjoy speaking in the church where, in the beginning of his ministry he was stationed. In his introductory remarks he stated that in looking over the church record he could find the name of but one person who was a member at the time of his ministry—that of Mrs. Theodore Traver who now resides in the Isle of Pines, and one official member—Mr. Benson of Kingston.

Service at the Methodist Church next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Rev. G. E. Wright, D. D., pastor. Theme "Christ and the World." Everybody welcome. Sunday School at 2.

Mrs. Egbert Ellsworth of Port Ewen, attended the service at Esopus church last Sunday afternoon.

BOY SCOUTS GOOD ACTORS

The entertainment given under the auspices of Troop 3, Boy Scouts of America, at the Reformed Church of the Comforter Wednesday evening was conceded by all who witnessed it to have surpassed all previous efforts along this line.

The chapel was filled to capacity, every available seat and bit of standing room being occupied—in fact it was impossible to accommodate all of the people desirous of attending.

Every number on the program was given a hearty ovation at its conclusion, and the audience dispersed at the close of the performance expressing the keenest appreciation of a most enjoyable evening.

The music by the Wiltwyck orchestra was artistically rendered and served to arouse the audience to a happy frame of mind despite their crowded condition. This was the first appearance in public of the orchestra as a whole and its success was pronounced. No doubt this orchestra will be heard from frequently in the future.

Mr. Floyd, the magician, very successfully mystified the critical onlookers with his many clever and weird tricks. It was the concensus of opinion that Mr. Floyd has a brilliant future in this profession.

The two farces were enacted with the precision and interpretaion of professionals. The appreciation of the spectators was expressed throughout the performance with roars of laughter at the comical sayings and ridiculous make-ups of the various characters. The boys comprising the casts are deserving of much credit for their part in making the entertainment a success, as it was evident at all times that they had carefully prepared themselves.

Negro Folk Song Recital.

Cleveland G. Allen, a negro writer and lecturer, and student at Columbia University, will appear in Kingston on Wednesday evening, March 23, in a lecture-recital on "The History and Origin of Negro Folk Songs." His lecture-recital will deal with the story of negro music, the development of the folk songs, together with their history which he will illustrate by singing. The recital will be held at the Zion Church, of which the Rev. E. O. Clark, is the pastor, and will make his first appearance in Kingston. He is one of the best known of the young negroes, and during the war was decorated by the Red Cross Society for service to the nation. He has made a thorough study of negro music, and his lecture should be of interest to both white and colored citizens of Kingston.

Max Goodnough, civilian relief pilot, and Lieutenant Ross Kirkpatrick, of the U. S. Army Air Service, photographed at Mitchel Field, Mineola, L. I., where they will attempt to make a new airplane endurance record. This will be third attempt for the record. Last December they were forced to land after eighteen hours and four minutes in the air. Their last attempt was February 16, of this year, when they were compelled to come down after eleven hours and twenty-one minutes, owing to engine trouble. The endurance record is 24 hours, 19 minutes and 7 seconds, made last June by B. Boussoutrut, a French flier, in a Farnum plane. Lieutenant Kirkpatrick will fly a Liberty motored Curtiss plane and will carry 600 gallons of gasoline. Goodnough will make the flight as relief pilot and mechanician.

WHO OWNS ISLE?

Gem of the Pacific Is Without a Proprietor.

Englishman Originally Leased It From the British Government, and It Is Well Worth Having.

Palmerston island (in south Pacific, between Society islands and Samoa) was a welcome sight, as welcome as it was unique. It is doubtful if such another gem adorns the earth. Neither shell nor island, it is a perfect combination of both, a natural sachiace of surf pounded coral strung with six, equi-distant verdant islets, the whole inclosing a shallow lagoon studded with unbelievable color.

Such was Palmerston as we approached it before a stiff southeast "trade," to be welcomed by a fleet of amazingly fast luggers and their astonished crews, Ralph Stock writes in the National Geographic Magazine. "Who were we? Where had we sprung from? Had we any matches?"

To our astonishment, the questions were fired at us in English and, what was more, English of a vaguely familiar pattern. It is a strange thing to hear one's own tongue formally handled among a brown-skinned people on an isolated speck of earth in mid-Pacific.

I have Palmerston island securely pigeonholed in my mind as the spot of all others in which, when the time comes, to sit down and wait for the end.

The outside world, in the shape of a schooner from the Cook group, intrudes itself but once a year. The lagoon and its neighboring islets are a mine of interest to the naturalist or sportsman, and the people have a simple charm that is all their own.

Many years ago one John Masters leased Palmerston island from the British government, and, not believing in half-measures, took unto himself three native wives. By each he had a large and healthy family, which he reared in strict accordance with his own standards of social usage. That they were good standards is evidenced in the people of Palmerston today. They read, write and speak English; this last with an accent vaguely reminiscent of the southwest of England. They are courteous, hospitable and honest to a degree nothing short of startling, these days, and, although naturally inbred, they do not show it, either mentally or physically.

One thing alone troubles the John Masters of today. To whom do he and his island belong? The war has changed all things. The Cook group, of which Palmerston has been declared a far-flung unit, is administered by New Zealand. Is Masters to be taxed, governed and generally harried by a people who hardly existed when his father took over Palmerston? It looks like it.

Avoid Him.

Our idea of a cynic is a man with a grouch who loves to make others feel as mean as he does.—Boston Transcript.

OLD TANNERS DID GOOD WORK

Leather Made in China 4,000 Years Ago Has Been Found in Comparatively Good Condition.

Originally skins were cured by simply cleaning and drying. Then it was found the texture of the leather was improved by the use of smoke, sour milk, various oils and the brains of animals themselves. Later it was discovered that certain astringent barks and vegetables effected permanent changes in the texture of skins and stopped decay. The ancient Egyptians possessed this knowledge, for engravings on their tombs depict the process of tanning. In China specimens of leather have been discovered in company with other relics that prove them to be more than 4,000 years old. The Romans used leather which they tanned with oil, alum and bark. Early explorers in America found the Indians wearing skins prepared with buffalo dung, oil and clay.

No improvement in the general methods of preparing leather took place from the most primitive times until about 1790, when the use of lime to loosen the hair was introduced. By 1625 English tanners were attempting to introduce new methods by which the tanning process could be shortened. One of the pioneers in these experiments was John Burridge, the inventor of the barkometer, an instrument for determining the strength of tanning liquors.

In 1630 the first tannery in America was built in Virginia. A second one was established a few years later at Lynn, Mass.

FIRST "BLUE LAW" EXPONENT

Emperor Constantine Laid Down Strict Rules for the Guidance of His Subject Peoples.

Constantine, the great Roman emperor, who ruled in 321 A. D., was the first ruler in Europe to impose blue laws upon the people. Constantine was highly religious, and he demanded strict observance of the Sabbath throughout his vast empire.

He decreed that "judges, inhabitants and artificers" must rest on the Sabbath. He excepted husbandmen from this order, however, since "sowing was a necessity and could not be done on any other day." Slaves could not be compelled work on this day, by the emperor's decree. Should masters be caught in the act of forcing their slaves to labor, a heavy fine and perhaps a jail sentence would be imposed. Children were emancipated from labor on the Sabbath. Constantine also ordered his vast armies wherever they might be to devote this day to prayer. At the same time he set aside Friday as a day in which prayer was required of all the people. Later he extended his order to include Saturday as a day when the wheels of Roman industry should remain still.

The Price That Is Set.

The gods have set a price upon every real and noble pleasure. If you would gain the favor of the Deity you must be at the pains of worshiping Him; if you would be beloved by your friends you must study to oblige them; if you would be honored by any city you must be of service to it; and if you would be admired by all Greece, on account of your probity and valor, you must exert yourself to do her some eminent service. If you would render your fields fruitful and fill your arms with grain, you must labor to cultivate the soil accordingly. Would you grow rich by your herds, a proper care must be taken of them; would you extend your dominions by arms and be rendered capable of setting at liberty your captive friends and bringing your enemies to subjection, you must not only learn of those that are experienced in the art of war, but exercise yourself also in the practice of military affairs; and if you would excel in the strength of your body you must keep your body in due subjection to your mind and exercise it with labor and pains.—From the "Memorabilia of Socrates."

Unnecessary Courtesy.

American parents often deplore the abruptness of their children's speech, but few American children would venture to address their parents in the incisive language sometimes used in the Gladstone family, as indicated in a recent book by Mary Drew, Mr. Gladstone's daughter. It bored Mr. Gladstone, she says, to hear people apologetically drone—"My dearest wife, I really think you are wrong," etc. "He thought it more to the point to be short and sharp—'A lie!' It is impossible to forget Lord Morley's face," adds Mrs. Drew, "when he first heard one of us say to Mr. Gladstone, 'A lie!' This freedom of opposition half startled and decided pride in Hawarden. Mr. Gladstone's daughter observes, but it broke the enthusiasm of discussion and "put everyone in good humor."—From the Outlook.

Straightening Wire.

Many pieces of copper wire have many uses, but it is often necessary to straighten out wire that has already been used before it can be employed again. So that there are no dirty hands or looks in the wire and straighten out by hand any of those which are found. Pull on one end of the wire to some firm anchorage, grip it in the vise if necessary. Long the other end of the wire several times with some handy tool or similar instrument and then pull out the length of wire. Repeat the operation as often as necessary. If the wire is of soft copper it will stretch a little, which improves it.

His Good Talent.

"Charley is a great talker, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"But he gets big prices for his work."

"Yes, he's a mighty good salesman."—Boston Transcript.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ON THE WAY.

"Now you must start," said Mrs. Wood Elf to the boy and the girl who were going forth for adventures. They had heard the story Mrs. Get-the-Most-Out-of-Life had told them of how she was named and how she lived up to the meaning of all the words in her name.

"I packed up a delicious luncheon and supper for you," said Mrs. Wood Elf. "And there is also enough for breakfast and luncheon tomorrow. Here! I will put it in your knapsack.

"And you needn't stay to help wash up the dishes (they hadn't really said anything about dishes, but they were glad that, as the subject had been mentioned, they wouldn't have to stop around any longer) for the old giant who said you would be starting early this morning would be surprised if he saw you still around."

"You were going to take us to the end of the wood, weren't you?" asked the boy. "We wouldn't be able to find our way back to the road before nightfall, and, while we'd love to spend the night here again, we really must be on our way."

"Yes, I think we should be starting," said the girl, "though we've had a very good time."

"That's right," said Mrs. Wood Elf.

Really Quite Glad.

"You haven't forgotten your manners. That was a most polite speech." She laughed and continued:

"We like manners even in the woods. We're used to it. You would be surprised, I've no doubt, to see how polite even the birds are to each other. "Now," she said, "I will take you out of the woods. I will lead you to the road."

"I'll do the dishes," said Mrs. Get-the-Most-Out-of-Life.

"I should think you could get something more interesting out of life than that," said the girl.

"Well, perhaps I could, and, in fact, I'm sure I could," said Mrs. Get-the-Most-Out-of-Life. "But my mother, whose name was Take-Your-Time, told me once that it was nice sometimes to thank folks for their hospitality in other ways besides the use of words.

"And Mrs. Wood Elf will be late in getting home and will doubtless then be tired. I'm really quite glad to do the dishes under such circumstances.

"Good-by! Good luck!"

"Good-by," they shouted as they went through the woods with Mrs. Wood Elf.

"We would never find the way ourselves," said the boy.

"I'm sure we wouldn't," said the girl.

"Let's run," said the boy. So they ran in and out of the trees and sometimes Mrs. Wood Elf ran with them, but she said she wasn't so fond of running as they were. She promised, though, to be on the same path, walking straight ahead so they could always come back and find her.

"I'm so glad we came adventuring," said the boy.

"I'll be glad to see the House of Secrets. I love secrets," said the girl, "and to think that we'll have secrets filling up a whole house!"

"Oh, it's fine to have some place worth seeing at the end of the trip," said the boy. "And a long journey with many adventures will make it all the more interesting."

"But you're going the wrong way," said some voices.

"No, you're going the right way," said some other voices.

"Nonsense," said the first voices, "you're going the wrong way. We know."

"They don't know," said the other voices. "You're going the right way."

"I think we must be going the right way," said the boy. "We'll run back to Mrs. Wood Elf and find out. How fine these adventures are.

"I love adventures and adventures! Such a journey! Such excitement. It's wonderful."

"Let's hear more of what the voices have to say," suggested the boy.

"All right," the girl agreed.

So they didn't go back. Just then, to Mrs. Wood Elf, but they stayed and talked with the voices, though they couldn't see who owned the voices at all. Such was the excitement though of adventuring!

HANDICRAFT FOR GIRLS

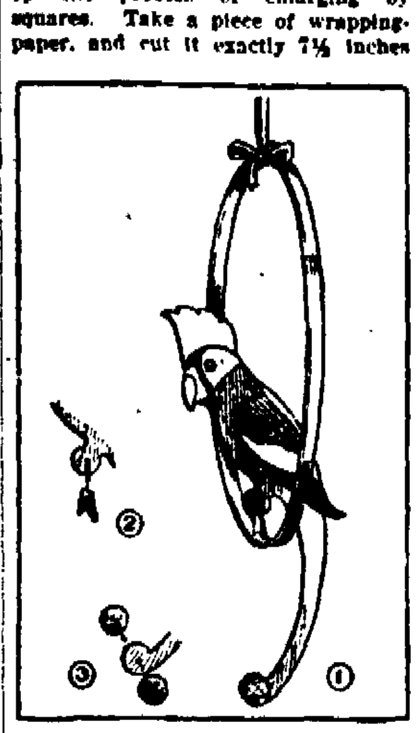

By DOROTHY PERKINS

(Copyright by A. Neely Hall.)

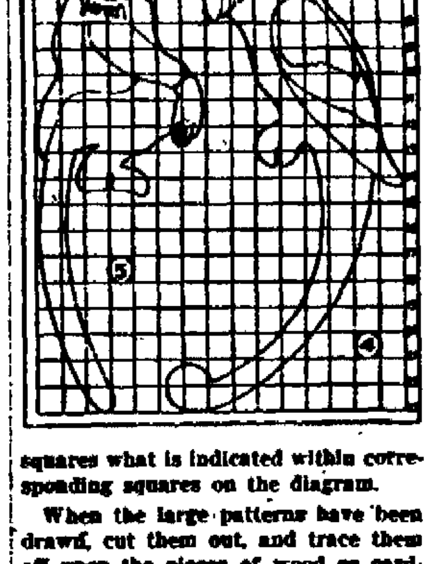

BIRD AND ANIMAL CUT-OUTS.

If you can get whitewood or basswood, one-fourth inch thick, such as is sold for scroll-saw work, and a hand scroll-saw, it will be a simple operation to cut the parrot shown in Fig. 1, and the monkey shown in Fig. 6, out of wood. But if you have neither the wood nor saw, you can cut the figures out of heavy cardboard with a knife.

To simplify the work of drawing the parrot and the monkey, I have provided patterns in Figs. 4 and 5, and these you can easily reproduce the size that you want to have them, by the process of enlarging by squares. Take a piece of wrapping-paper, and cut it exactly 7½ inches wide by 11 inches long, being careful to get the corners square. Then with a ruler mark off ½-inch divisions along each edge, and connect opposite division points with straight lines. Your sheet of paper will now be filled with squares similar to the diagram of Figs. 4 and 5. There will be exactly the same number of squares, too, but they will be nearly four times as wide and high as those in the diagram. Letter the vertical lines across the top edge, from A to P, and number the horizontal lines along one side, from 1 to 23, as shown. With the sheet thus prepared, it will only be necessary to locate within the squares what is indicated within corresponding squares on the diagram.

When the large patterns have been drawn, cut them out, and trace them off upon the pieces of wood or cardboard provided for them. If you use wood, care must be taken in sawing out around the small projections of the bodies, as they will split off easily, and you don't want to have to glue pieces together after the cutting has been done. If you use cardboard, make the figures of double thickness, otherwise they will not be heavy enough.

Buy 12-inch oval embroidery-hoops for swings, and use ribbon to suspend them by. The parrot's claws do not rest directly upon the hoops, but grasp a piece of cardboard of the shape shown in Fig. 2, the lower points of which stand upon the hoop. This piece fits in a slot cut through the claws, at right angles; glue it in place. To make the parrot balance upon its perch, it is necessary to weight its tail, and the best means of weighting is by gluing a No. 3 shirt-weight, or a telephone slug, to each side of the tail (Fig. 3). Cut a slot through the monkey's feet, and insert a piece like that provided for the parrot (Fig. 7). Weight the monkey's tail like the parrot's, also (Fig. 8).

The Model.

"I don't understand," said Mrs. Hat[illegible]. "I remember very well that you used to point out your Dick as a model husband. Yet now you contend that he is lazy."

"Well," said Mrs. [illegible], "he's a model right enough—only he isn't a working model."

Countess Potocka, of Obscure Birth, Became Wife of Great Nobleman of That Country.

The Countess Potocka lived obscurely in the days between the first and second partitions of Poland. She was born in 1766, and was the daughter of a Greek shoemaker at Constantinople. Her extraordinary beauty and her poverty brought her to misfortune. A French consul named Boscamp took her away from Constantinople to Poland. There she is said to have married a Russian general, and later to have divorced him.

Then she married Count Stanislaw Felix Potocka, one of the wealthiest noblemen of Europe, a Pole of great influence but slight ability, who is regarded as a traitor who did much to bring ruin to Poland. The countess lived for many years in Berlin, where her beauty created a furore in the ranks of society. She died there in 1822.

Count Potocka was the Rockefeller of Poland. He owned several castles and enormous estates, possessing in the Ukraine alone no less than 3,000,000 acres. When he became of age he married secretly a very attractive cousin. When the story of their elopement was divulged there were terrible scenes. Although he was old enough to be a husband Felix was forced and his young wife, berated and shunned, finally threw herself into a pond to escape her persecutors.

God's Best Medicine.

"Mirth is God's medicine," says a noted writer. "Everybody ought to bathe in it. Grim care, moroseness, anxiety, all the rust of life, ought to be scoured off by the oil of mirth. It is better than emery. Every man ought to rub himself with it. A man without mirth is like a wagon without springs, but a man who laughs and causes others to laugh, even though the days are dark and the causes for laughter are few, is like a chariot with springs in which one may ride over the rough roads and feel nothing but a pleasant motion."

SCIENTIST HAD LITTLE JOKE

Pleasantry That Was Keenly Enjoyed by Everybody Except Possibly the Terror-Stricken Victim.

When Prof. Joseph Le Conte was taking a scientific excursion with Agassiz he ventured on a little pleasantry, to beguile the time. They had gone by sailing vessel to the Marquesas, and thence into the Dry Tortugas.

The day after their arrival Professor Le Conte was sent to examine a little island, about ten miles away, and having done it, he remained there becalmed all the next day. The water was about twenty feet deep, a splendid place for a dive.

Le Conte stripped and plunged overboard, and amused himself by plucking sponges and corals from the bottom. While he was thus engaged, an old-time naturalist who had joined the party, something to Agassiz' disgust, came paddling round the ship in a little boat.

Le Conte, to the delight of the sailors looking on, took hold of the keel, lay on his back with his legs under the boat and his head hidden by the stern and began to swim backward.

The boat mysteriously moved the wrong way, and the harder the old gentleman paddled the more it remained him. Still it moved backward.

He was alarmed. Some devilish sea creature was evidently running away with him. He peered over the gunwale, but saw nothing. Now he paddled frantically, his strength increased by terror; but still the boat slipped back. Finally the astonishing natives laughed on board that the joke could be carried on no longer, and Le Conte, fearful of an enormous paddling creature behind, swam swiftly away.

BERGDOLL CASE VITAL TO OTHERS

On Judge's Decision As to Whether Erwin Was Legally Notified of His Induction Into Army Depends Government's Action in Thousands of Cases of Draft Evasion.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 18.—The case against Erwin Bergdoll, brother of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, under sentence of five years imprisonment for evading the draft, is to be reopened at the request of the government and a new hearing will be held in the district court at Kansas City probably within a week, it was learned here today.

The government desires to present additional evidence to strengthen its case which is pending in the district court at Kansas City, as officials anticipate the decision in this case will be used as the basis of future actions against draft evaders when the official list of these evaders is made public by the war department in the near future.

The case of Erwin Bergdoll hinges upon the question of what constitutes legal notice of induction into service. The war department has maintained that proof of the mailing of the formal notice is sufficient. Bergdoll contended that he never received such notice.

Some time after his brother escaped, Erwin Bergdoll surrendered at Governor's Island where he was tried by court martial, convicted and sentenced to serve five years in Leavenworth military prison. He had scarcely begun his sentence when he applied to Judge Pollock of the United States district court for a writ of habeas corpus. There has been no ruling by the court as yet and the validity of Bergdoll's contention that the draft notice did not reach him has therefore not yet been determined.

Upon the final decision of this question, it was admitted by war department officials today, may rest the fate of thousands of alleged draft evaders. Certainly if the courts definitely decide that mailing draft notices does not constitute service, conviction of draft evasion will be exceedingly difficult, as mailing was the usual manner of notification practiced throughout the war.

Should Judge Pollock decide in favor of Bergdoll the government will undoubtedly appeal to the Circuit court of Appeals and if necessary will bring the case to the Supreme Court of the United States. It is also expected that Bergdoll will make similar appeals if the case is decided against him. As the status of approximately 150,000 alleged wilful draft evaders is involved, the government is expected to put up an earnest fight.

The war department is now working out a plan for handling the great influx of draft evasion cases which is expected to follow publication of the official list.

The American Legion which has been consistent in its demand that the list of draft dodgers be made public, is expected to be of considerable assistance in rounding up the deserters. The Department of Justice will also cooperate.

White Fathers' Acquisition.

The ground upon which stands the ruins of the celebrated amphitheater of Carthage has been acquired by purchase by the White Fathers, a Roman Catholic missionary society resident in Algiers. Saints Perpetua and Felicite met martyrdom in this area, and as the order of the White Fathers is based, largely, on the works and death of these two saints, their acquisition of the historical site is doubly interesting.

The purchase was celebrated directly after the deal was closed by a solemn high mass, sung in a subterranean vault found among the ruins. Into this, victims, particularly the early Christians, were undoubtedly held while awaiting death in pillars of fire or at the jaws of famished wild beasts above them when Carthage had a holiday.

The Safety of Flying.

It sounds paradoxical to say that the airplane smash at Golders Green brought home to the public the safety of flying, but it is true. Passenger and mail aerial routes have been operated daily between London and the continent for over a year, often in very difficult weather, without a mishap; the thing has become a recognized and regular feature of modern communications—so regular, indeed, that it is almost possible to set the clock along the line of route by the passing of the air mail. The accident on Wednesday morning is very regrettable, but it does not really affect the fact that travel by air is becoming safer than motoring.—London Outlook.

England's War on Rats.

No details have yet been issued of the casualties inflicted on the rats during the latest spasm of intensive warfare. It is to be hoped for our own welfare that the list of the killed will be long and that no prisoners will have been taken.

It is recorded that in a hamstery in the north of England, in one single day, men and terriers killed over a quarter of a ton of the redcoats. That continual warfare is necessary to extirpate where one remembers that a pair of healthy rats might have at the end of two years something like 20,000 descendants.

WIT FROM CHINA

Eastern Sense of Humor Very Much Like Our Own.

Samples Show There Has Been Little Change in Human Nature Through the Centuries.

Although the Chinese may seem serious, he is not without a genuine appreciation of humor. His literature is highly seasoned with witticisms and humorous situations. Unfortunately, brevity, which is essentially the soul of wit of his proverbs, is impaired in the translation into English. Also there is much of Chinese humor, even that found in the books of the most famous writers, that is too broad for a literal translation.

Nevertheless, human nature is, and has for a thousand years, been fundamentally the same. This is shown by the following epigrams, taken from the work of a writer, Li Shang Yin, who lived twelve hundred years ago in the Flowery kingdom. The translation from the Chinese was made by Mr. W. F. Mayers.

The headings are the Chinese author's own:

Conditions Out of Place.

A poor Parsee.
A sick physician.
A fat bride.
A teacher who does not know his letters.
A graybeard given to flirting.

What One Does Not Despise.

When one is hungry—coarse victuals.
When one is on the tramp—the smallest nag to ride.
When one is thirsty — cold tea water.

Comparisons.

A courtier—is like pumpkins, which grow best in the dark.
A crow—is like a fiddler, he makes music when he's hungry.
A judge—is like a tiger, never moves but he does some injury.

What It Is Better Not to Know.

A fiddler had better not know music, or he will be thrown out of work.
A woman had better not know poetry or she will lose her reputation.
A servant had better not know his letters or he will get into trouble.
A scholar had better not know anything about handicrafts, or he will be held in contempt.

Vexation.

Sitting down to a feast and feeling the stomach ache.
Finding the bottle empty in the midst of a jolly night.
Not being able to get rid of one's poor relations.

Extreme of Unpleasantness.

Blundering upon matters which are taboo in a friend's house.
Meeting a creditor when one can't pay one's debts.
Hearing drunken babble after one has become sober.

Tribulations.

To invite a distinguished guest, who fails to come to dinner.
To have a disagreeable fellow come on his own invitation.
To be buttonholed by a drunken man.
To have no money when things are cheap.
To be seated opposite the man you hate.

Growing Follies of the Age.

Envy hatred and malice.
Invoking the gods when one is drunk.
Women clacking about the streets.
Mortgaging one's property.

Checkers Played by Nile.

Checkers is one of the oldest games played today. Sixteen hundred years before Christ was born the Egyptians were playing a game along the Nile that was essentially our game of checkers or draughts, as the British prefer to call it. The ancient Greeks had the game with but slight variations, and through all the intervening centuries it has interested and entertained people. Some now prefer chess, another very old game, claiming that there is more mental work involved; but the game of checkers, simple as it is, presents a demand for the use of mental powers quite equal to those of the average person.

That the rules of the game have become very well established is indicated by the fact that Joshua Sturges's "Guide to the Game of Draughts," which was first published in 1800, is still the standard authority on all points of dispute in the game of checkers as played today.

Women's Hair Price Increases.

The price given by hairdressers for women's hair has increased enormously during the last 12 months. While some women in America and Britain sell their hair, the real trade in this commodity is done in continental countries. Peasant girls in France, Belgium and Italy sell their hair at regular periods to dealers. This hair is mostly of the fair and black variety, while many golden hair is obtained from Scandinavians.

Variability.

"Do you regard poker as a gentleman's game?"

"Yes, as that game," replied Cholly de Jones. "It's like every other game when politics is penny ante. Whether it's a gentleman's game or not depends entirely on who happens to be playing it."

Just Tradition.

Just Tradition says after a man has retired on an allowance it's liable to make him quite some time longer to get over the notion.

BOY SCOUTS

SCOUT FIRE FIGHTERS

Twenty six Cashmere (Wash.) boy scouts, with their leaders, started on a big trunk for an overnight camp, an all day trip which landed them in the beautiful Aquabane creek valley at nightfall. They erected their shelter tents, had a big "feed" and a jolly campfire pow-wow. Shortly after taps a scout reported a fire visible down the canyon. In less than 30 seconds the troop was in formation ready for action. The Red Cross patrol under Senior Patrol Leader Gail Phillips was sent down the canyon with instructions to leave two scouts at the sawmill, a mile away, another two at another point, etc., so that up soon as the fire was located a message could be relayed back to camp. Meanwhile two other patrols were equipped for fire fighting, and special orders given.

A few minutes later one boys of the first patrol brought back word that it was the mill which was on fire, and that they had left the other six scouts in the thick of it. One of the assistant scoutmasters and a few scouts were left to guard the camp, as it was surrounded by valuable timber which might catch fire.

Scoutmaster Chichester and Assistant Bruggens arrived at the scene of the disaster in a short time with an eager squad of workers. The few men in charge at the mill had about given up hope of saving anything from the flames, but the boys formed a bucket brigade from a nearby creek to the lumber piles, and by means of wet sacks put out new fires, which kept starting, while another crew wrecked the high tramway which was acting as a fuse and leading the fire from pile to pile of lumber. By 2 a. m. the fire was under control. The mill and a large amount of lumber had been destroyed, but thanks to the efforts of the scouts, two buildings, some furniture, two or three heavy wagons, and over 200,000 feet of lumber, some $3,000 worth in all, were saved. A weary but triumphant lot of boys hiked back to camp, leaving two of their number to patrol the fires until daylight. They did not climb the mountain the next day, as had been planned, but nobody was disappointed, as the troop had had enough thrills and hard work for one outing.

The work of the scouts received much well deserved praise, and the president of the lumber company whose property they had saved presented the troop with a $50 check in appreciation of the remarkable good turn, a gift that was accepted with the understanding that the money would be used to purchase needed equipment.

SCOUT LEADERS MEET.

The Pasadena boy scout council had its annual meeting in January in the new mission patio of the Hotel Vista del Arroyo. After the meeting the council entertained all the local scoutmasters and troop committee with a banquet and "snappy" scout program. About one hundred men were present and voted the affair a great success.

SCOUT STUDY CONSTITUTION.

E. E. Givens of Great Falls, Mont., recently offered five prizes for the five best essays written by registered scouts of Great Falls on the subject of "The History of the Constitution of the United States." The contest is to be made an annual affair. This is an excellent way of intensifying interest in the history and government of our nation. His Givens' local might well be followed by other public-spirited citizens.

200 Students Made Ill.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Madison, Wis., March 18.—Two hundred young women students of the University of Wisconsin are recovering today for poisoning believed to have been caused by food served from the General University kitchen. Dr Van Valzah, chief of the clinical department, said none of the girls are seriously ill and that most of them probably would attend their classes today. An analysis is being made to determine what articles of food caused the girl's illness.

Knight Indicted.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New Brunswick, N. J., March 18.—George Washington Knight, 24 year old negro who is said to have confessed to the brutal murder of Mrs Edith Wilson, church organist of Perth Amboy, last Saturday night, was indicted in five minutes today by the grand jury. He is expected to be tried, sentenced and executed within a month.

LIE PASSED AT MATEWAN TRIAL

Lawyers in Big Battle Between Coal Operators and Miners at Murder Trial Nearly Come to Blows—Jury Gets Case Tonight.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Williamson, W. Va., March 18.—"trigger case" will go to the jury tonight, Judge Robert D. Bailey announced in adjourning the forenoon session.

"Falsehood" was the challenge flung into each other's teeth by two lawyers, tremulous and white with rage in the "trigger trial" earlier today.

They came close to blows, the crowd held its breath in the tensest moments yet witnessed during the trial.

John Marcum, pleading for the state, was making a violent attack on the United Mine Workers of America and the 16 accused miners in particular. He spoke of an alleged demonstration of violence by union workers.

Harold W. Houston, whose previous plea for the defense Marcum was assailing with scathing bitterness, jumped to his feet.

"That's not true, and you know it isn't," he shouted.

"I knew you wouldn't like it," shot back Marcum, advancing toward Houston and pointing his finger at him across the counsel table.

A deputy sheriff with a gun bulging from each hip, stepped close to the two.

Houston shot out his arm and pointed his finger also into Marcum's face, explaining:

"I don't like falsehood, anywhere."

"Neither do I," was Marcum's thunderous retort, "and I ask you to say that to me outside. I have too much respect for this court to resent here any statement coming from the lips of such as you."

Judge Robert Bailey rapped for order, leaning his powerful physique over the bench and with calm, clear voice asked the two attorneys to abandon their personalities. He ruled in favor of Houtson, asking Marcum to desist from that particular line of argument.

SHOT AT TROOPERS.

Attempt to Wipe Out Squad in West Virginia.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Charleston, W. Va., March 18.—More than one hundred shots were fired into the mining camp at Wills Branch Tuesday night in an alleged effort to annihilate the force of six state troopers here, according to a telephone message received today from Glen Jean, nearby.

Reinforcements have been ordered sent into the district, it is reported here, although Col. Jackson Arnold, head of the state constabulary, declines to make a statement except to announce that additional troopers are being sent to replace those already there.

No casualties occurred in the latest outbreak so far as can be learned.

Lewis Against Reductions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—Attempts to reduce wages of coal miners throughout the country will be resisted by the United Mine Workers of America with all the force the organization has at its command, John L. Lewis, international president, declared today.

REDUCED FROM TWO WIVES TO ONE

And J. J. Tanean, Sometimes of South Rondout, Erstwhile "Y" Secretary in France, Will Have None if Number Two Carries Out Threat.

When Mr. and Mrs. Justin J. Tanean of South Rondout were playing their laugh-making skit, entitled "Put a Little Lemon On It," Mrs Tanean had no idea that her husband intended to follow the title literally in dealing with their marriage.

The Taneans were married in New York city in 1899. Both were vaudeville players and their specialties brought them big money in New York city and in many of the states where they appeared. About seven years ago they played in Kingston, appearing at the Orpheum Theatre in an act having the title, "Put a Little Lemon On It." The sketch is still remembered by many persons who saw them as one of the funniest ever staged.

During the World War, Tanean went to France as one of the secretaries for the Y. M. C. A., serving there without pay. Previously he had been receiving $125 a week whenever he appeared in vaudeville, as he was a good actor and an excellent musician. When he was released from service in France, he returned to New York but not to South Rondout, where he and Mrs. Tanean had purchased a home a number of years ago and where they lived when not on the stage. Mrs. Tanean never has seen her husband since he went to France.

Some time ago Mrs. Tanean heard that her husband was living with another woman in New York city. She learned on investigation that he had been married to a woman named Mary Dooney at St. Paul's Church, New York city on February 15, 1920, by the Rev. Edward C. Nilan. In applying for a marriage license, Tanean had given his address as 528 West Fifty-fifth street, and the woman had given her address as 243 East One Hundred and Twenty-third street. He stated his age as 42 and she gave her age as 32 years.

Mrs. Tanean thereupon began an action for divorce. After the complaint had been served on Tanean, he wrote a letter, to which he took oath, in which he acknowledged the receipt of the summons and complaint in the divorce action brought by his first wife, Dora Tanean, and stated: "She is justified in asking a divorce against me." He denied, however, that he was then receiving $75 a week as she claimed, but said he hd been ill, was then working for an electrical company and his salary had just been raised to $26 a week.

The various inquiries finally reached the mother of Mrs. Tanean No. 2, who is said to have chased Tanean out of her home with a revolver, and Mrs. Tanean No. 2 announced her intention of having the second marriage annulled.

The action brought by Tanean's first wife, for divorce, was tried before Judge Hasbrouck at supreme court chambers this morning. Henry E. McKenzie of Port Ewen appeared for the plaintiff; there was no appearance on the part of Tanean. Judge Hasbrouck directed a decree of divorce, granting Mrs. Tanean $50 counsel fee and $10 a week alimony.

FREED BY PORTER.

Who Swore Ownes Didn't Know About the Whiskey.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Miami, Fla., March 18.—On testimony of a negro porter that he placed fifty-five cases of whiskey aboard the private car Bayside without the knowledge or consent of the car's owner, Harry St. Francis Black, New York multi-millionaire, was released here today by United States Commissioner J. M. Graham.

Black was arrested yesterday by a police officer at Cocoanut Grove and by Federal prohibition agents and charged with violation of the Volstead act. His private car was seized but was also released today's court order.

WEATHERWAX FIRM.

Demands More Protection and Banning of Jitneys.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., March 18.—Harry B. Weatherwax, general manager of the United Traction Co. this afternoon requested the mayors of the cities served by that company for immediate "greater police protection." The request grows out of increased violence in the trolley strike. Weatherwax also demanded of the city executives that they immediately put a stop to jitney service. This action, he explained, is preliminary to institution of court action to end jitney service.

GERMANS EXPECT TO WIN SILESIA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, March 18.—German officials and the German press made optimistic predictions today that Germany will be victorious in the plebescite next Sunday which will determine the future status of upper Silesia.

It is estimated that 1,200,000 votes will be cast. Even those who are pessimistically inclined expressed the opinion that Germany will get sixty per cent of the vote. The real optimists put the German vote at from 70 to 80 per cent.

Special trains are rushing 180,000 Germans to Silesia to vote. They have the privilege to vote in the plebescite because they were born in Silesia. Some Germans came home from foreign countries to exercise their franchises.

The Inter-Allied Control Commission has granted the official German request that the officials of Upper Silesia who will assist in supervising the election be increased. The Germans have charged that the French were openly pro-Polish. In addition to the French troops in Upper Silesia on Sunday there will be four battalions of British and one of Italian soldiers.

The Inter-Allied Control Commission has forbidden public use of the telegraph and telephone lines in Upper Silesia until noon Sunday, except for messages approved by the military censor.

Germany claims that Poland is establishing cause for trouble by massing troops on the German frontier and complaint has already been made to the Allies of this issue.

SEPARATE PEACE BEING CONSIDERED

By Foreign Relations Committee—Some Think Re-passage of Knox Resolution Inopportune and That Treaty Would Be Better.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 18.—The possibility of the United States entering into separate peace negotiations with Germany and Austria is being given serious consideration by members of the senate foreign relations committee, it was learned today.

Some leaders have expressed the belief that the administration may decide a separate peace treaty with Germany and Austria would be a better and more practical way of ending the still existing technical state of war between the United States and those nations than the mere passage of a congressional resolution.

Several Republican leaders of the senate say they are in entire accord with the president and state department that re-passage of the Knox peace resolution at this time would be "inopportune," if only because of the German reparations situation.

Other Republican senators, who strongly favor re-establishing the United States upon a peace basis without further delay, expressed the opinion, however, that one reason for the movement of British, French and Belgian troops further into Germany as a result of the reparations controversy may have been to create a situation that would prevent this country from now making peace with the German people and at the ame time focus attention again on the league of nations issue.

FARMERS' PLIGHT CONCERNS HARDING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 18.—President Harding and his cabinet devoted more than two hours today to discussing the serious agricultural problems which are menacing the country. After the cabinet meeting the president received newspaper correspondents and made it plain to them that the administration views the economic situation, as it affects the producers of meats and grains with extreme gravity.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Delightful D. A. R. Social Afternoon.

A delightful social afternoon was afforded the members of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., on Thursday by the regent, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, Mrs. Van Hoevenberg and Mrs. Kenyon at the Chapter House. During the afternoon bridge and five hundred were played; a few of the ladies enjoyed fancy work and just visiting; and delicious light refreshments were served. The tea table, presided over by Mrs. A. T. Clearwater and Mrs. James H. Everett, was especially pretty with its vase of sunshiny jonquils and ferns, yellow and white bonbons completing the good old Holland Dutch color scheme. The afternoon was greatly enjoyed and appreciated by all present.

Celebrated 82nd Birthday.

On Saturday evening, March 12, the neighbors and intimate friends of William P. Low numbering about thirty, gathered at his residence, 43 Clinton avenue, where he has resided for more than fifty years, the occasion being the celebration of the anniversary of his 82nd birthday. Numerous games were indulged in which Mr. Low greatly enjoyed and in some of which he took part. At about 10:30 the guests repaired to the dining room where tables were laden with refreshments. Before partaking all were called to order and E. J. Nichols made an appropriate presentation speech and handed Mr. Low in behalf of those present a box containing a handsome gold piece as a token of their regards and friendship. After enjoying a few more games and a social hour all retired wishing Mr. Low many joyous birthdays.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Pittsburgh, March 18.—Jewelry valued at $44,000 was stolen from a display trunk, the property of A. Gerstam, a New York salesman last night while he was at dinner in a local hotel, it became known today through police channels. Hotel attaches were unable to throw any light on the robbery when questioned. Gerstam who represents Battlebaum and Friedman of New York, advances the theory that the thieves must have used a suit case or traveling bags to carry away the loot from the hotel, the amount being so large it could not be concealed in a person's pockets. Bell-boys, elevator operators and other employes say they saw no one carrying grips or suitcases from the floor where Gerstam's room was located.

TO MAKE WAY EASY.

Miss Robertson Cordially Received By Harding.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 18.—President Harding would make the path of women in politics an easy one, he told Miss Alice Robertson, congresswoman from Oklahoma, today.

Miss Robertson called on the president today and as she took a seat by his desk he lifted a large red rose from a vase and carefully picked the thorns from it and gave it to the congresswoman.

"Don't remove the thorns, I am in politics now," Miss Robertson told the president.

"There will be no rose with thorns for you from my hands," said the president.

VIVIANI'S RECEPTION

May Be Tempered By Nature of His Mission.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 18.—M. Viviani, who is coming to the United States on a mission from France, may not be received with open arms in some quarters.

Senator Knox, Republican of Pennsylvania, called at the White House today and when shown press dispatches stating that Viviani is coming to urge the president to accept the League of Nations without Article X, said:

"Well, if that is true and that is the purpose of the visit of M. Viviani, I don't wish him any luck."

Last Night's Fights.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Johnny Wilson won a referee's decision over Mike O'Dowd in 15 rounds.

Joe Gorman, Portland and Earl Gorman fought a ten round draw.

"Pepper" Martin, Boston, won a 10-round decision over George Prue, Buffalo in 10-rounds.

Jimmy Tomasulo, Elizabeth, N. J. and George Kitson, once a sparring partner of John Conlon, fought a six round draw.

At Syracuse—Irish Patsy Cline won a technical knockout over Young Richards in the sixth round of a scheduled 15 round bout.

At Passaic, N. J.—Mike McCabe knocked out Eddie Rankin in the fourth round.

At Philadelphia—Harry "Kid" Ryan knocked out Ralph Brady in the second round.

Joe Tiedtz knocked out Jimmy Jordan in the third round.

Kid Williams outpointed Kayo Joe O'Donnell in eight rounds.

Danny Krieger outfought Earl Puryear in eight rounds.

ANOTHER GIRL IN STILLMAN CASE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 18.—Another woman of mystery, generally referred to as "The Queen of Diamonds," assumed a place of commanding importance in the sensational Stillman divorce case today. She is said to have shared the attentive acquaintance of James A. Stillman, multi-millionaire president of the National City Bank, with Mrs. Florence Leeds, former "Chicken" in the chorus of a New York roof garden revue. One report was that both Mrs. Leeds and the "Queen of Diamonds" met the banker at a private supper party given by another financier of national fame and importance to a party of chorus girls in 1916.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Mrs. Edwin Koch of No. 200 Main street, will entertain at afternoon tea tomorrow afternoon at her home, for the Junior Ladies' Aid Society of St. James's M. E. Church. A silver collection to be taken will go toward the Easter dinner fund.

On account of a death in the family the cake sale of Circle No. 1 of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of the Comforter to be held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Chauncey Freer will be held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Elmendorf, 76 Foxhall avenue. All persons donating cakes are requested to take them to Mrs. Elmendorf.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Edward Keyser, aged 8 years, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Keyser, died Thursday. The funeral will be held from 52 Elmendorf street Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Interment in Wiltwyck cemetery.

Mrs. Catherine Radell, widow of Wenzell Radell, died early this morning after a lingering illness. Mrs. Radell was a lifelong member of St. Peter's Church and of the Christian Mothers' Society of St. Peter's Church and was beloved by all who knew her. She leaves 2 daughters, Mrs. Barbara Wemmer and Mrs. Albert Raichle, and 1 sons, Frank, Joseph, William and August Radell, all of this city. The funeral will be held from her late home, 148 Hudson street, Monday morning at 9 o'clock and 9:30 at St. Peter's Church where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

David A. Freer, aged 75 years, died Thursday. The funeral will be held from the residence of his son, Chauncey Freer, 14 Smith avenue, Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. Interment in the Bushkill cemetery, West Shokan.

Much Iron in Philippines.

The finest unworked iron fields in the world have been discovered in the Philippines, according to a report from government experts recently received by the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, says the Washington Post. The quantities of ore adjacent to good harbors, they state, will be sufficient to assure the future iron and steel production in the United States for generations. Already land believed to contain more than 500,000,000 tons has been surveyed. Deposits on the island of Mindanao are believed to be without a rival. They contain 275,000,000 tons close to good harbors and 130,000,000 tons within easy transportation distance of Dajkin bay, perhaps the best natural harbor on the islands. Only crude iron work in primitive smelters is being carried on at present.

The Dulling Hand of Man.

It is a humiliating reflection that man, when he comes in his numbers, defiles and defaces and makes ugly more than the wild beast. One has but to find his trail on any green place. The orange peels, the dirty and torn newspapers, the old boots, the broken crockery and utensils, have power to destroy beauty and peace and banish the Spirit of Place. When he stretches out his hand over what once was countryside, how depressing are his little houses, his clinker paths, in fields where the mule delved industriously from dawn to dark, where the lark climbed a thousand winding stairs into Heaven.—Katherine Tynan in the King's Highway.

Electric Irrigation.

Wholesale generation and distribution of electric current for the special purpose of irrigation, as it is generated and distributed elsewhere for light and power, is an unusual and interesting project recently undertaken in Queensland, Australia, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The machine employed is to sink a large well on each holding of land and irrigate an electrically driven pump. There are in excess of 100 of these pumps and some 12 miles of transmission line, radiate from the central station to supply them.

For the units, pumps, two-cylinder gasoline cylinders, 3 feet in diameter, 3 feet [illegible] working [illegible] 3 tons, are [illegible] from 40 to 60 feet to the water-bearing stratum.

The Usual Experience.

"That fellow and millionaire ought to write his name in [illegible] to make a [illegible] fortune, of him."

"He's got it. Money talks."—Baltimore American.

SLATER'S BODY ARRIVES TODA

The body of Private [illegible] Slater which was scheduled to arrive here Wednesday, will be sent to Kingston this afternoon, arriving at the West Shore railroad station at 7:10 o'clock. The order directing the body to be sent Wednesday was cancelled. Private Slater was a member of Company E, 10[illegible] Infantry, 27th Division. Members of the American Legion are requested to meet the body of their comrade.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIA

New York, March 18.—Although some issues made advances at the opening of the stock market today the entire list developed a reactionary tendency after the start and losses ranging up to over two points were sustained. Steel Common first rose ½ to 81 and then fell to 80½. Crucible fell 1 point to 86½. The rails and tobacco shares were under supply. Pennsylvania fell to a new low for the year of 34¾. Reading dropped a point to 66¾. New York Central dropped a point to 67¾ and Canadian Pacific slumped 2¾ to 111¾. Tobacco Products lost over 2 points to 47. American Sumatra and United Retail Stores yielded fractionally. Chandler Motors after selling up to 79½ fell to 78. Studebaker yielded a point to 65½. Mexican Petroleum dropped 2¼ to 144¼. Atlantic Gulf after selling up a point to 33½, quickly lost this gain. General Asphalt yielded a point.

The majority of issues traded during the first hour showed a weak tone and new low records for the movement were made in a number of issues. Strength was shown by others, the steel industrials holding well. A good deal of importance was attached to selling of Pennsylvania railroad, one house putting out ten thousand shares on which the stock broke to another new low record of 34¾. The St. Paul issues were also in supply, the preferred falling 1½ to 36¾.

Increased strength was shown in the market during the late afternoon when a majority of issues sold at high levels for the day. Steel Common rose to 81¾ and Crucible to 91½, an upturn of five points from its early low. Baldwin Locomotive made a gain of over two points to 88¾ and Mexican Petroleum sold up to 150½, a net gain of over six points. The tobacco issues rallied about one point from their low levels.

The market closed steady; government bonds, unchanged; railway and other bonds, steady.

PICKING JURY FROM NEW PANEL

Unable to get a jury from the jurors already called another extra panel of twenty-four jurors was summoned by Sheriff Kolts Thursday afternoon to report this morning at 9:30 o'clock when the work of selecting a jury to try the action brought by Dr. F. W. Terwilliger against Browning King & Company was resumed. The entire morning session of court was taken up in the examination of jurors.

The case which has become known as the "bath house" case arises out of a lease by the plaintiff of a Russian and Turkish bath establishment in New York city. The property was leased for a period of sixteen years from the Browning King Company, clothiers, by Dr. Terwilliger. Before the period of the lease expired the plaintiff claims he was ejected from the property and is suing to recover damages. The defence in the case is that Mr. Terwilliger failed to pay his rent and the marshal ejected him when he refused to pay.

Plaintiff claims that he was willing to pay the rent and can show that he tendered the amount of the rent to Browning King & Company and the offer was refused. The case is a long one and will take several days to try. Numerous witnesses were sworn at the former trials on both sides. At the first trial the jury disagreed, at the second trial a big verdict was returned and was later set aside by the appellate division and a new trial ordered.

The additional panel of jurors drawn to serve during the present term of court, who reported today are:

BOILER EXPLOSION

Shakes College District And Scares Students.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 18.—Twenty-four families were badly shaken up and hundreds of Columbia and Barnard students were aroused early today when a boiler exploded in the Hillcrest apartments on West 116th street. Dr. Titus Bull, his wife, daughter and nephew occupying an apartment above the boiler room, were hurled from their beds. The explosion partly wrecked the floor of their apartment. The negro fireman in the boiler room was badly burned and was removed to a hospital. The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

MRS. STILLMAN WINS A POINT

Justice Morschauser Sets Date for Argument on Motion to Require Husband to Show Financial Status.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

White Plains, N. Y., March 18.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser today handed down an order directing that next Wednesday morning arguments shall be made on the motion of Mrs. James A. Stillman to require Mr. Stillman to show his financial status on the motion for $10,000 a month alimony and $25,000 counsel fees.

There can now be no further postponement of the arguments unless a delay is agreed to by Mrs. Stillman's attorneys. Judge Morschauser directed that Mrs. Stillman's attorneys be notified of the date for the argument.

The order was handed down at the request of John F. Brennan of counsel for Mrs. Stillman. Several days ago Mr. Brennan notified Justice Morschauser that an agreement had been made to postpone the arguments indefinitely. It was believed then that the Stillmans might reach a settlement of their troubles outside the court.

It could not be learned this morning whether negotiations to settle the case had been in progress and failed.

Submarine Off Rocks.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Watch Hill, R. I., March 18.—U. S. Submarine N-2 was pulled from Watch Hill Reef early today. The under-sea boat had hung in a perilous position on the submerged rocks 14 hours. The N-2 was floated by the coast guard cutter Acushnet and other craft. The submersible was towed to New London apparently undamaged. Lieutenant Claude Farmer, U. S. N., in command, and his men remained aboard the craft.
